EAST WEST SCHURZ IS BEST

W

These windows of Schurz,
once long ago,
Saw grandmama come to school,
you know;
Not as we do in the rush
of today,
But stately and prim
in the "good old way"
Of horse car, or surrey,
or bicycle queer,
Or with sedate walk
if she lived near.

The American Family

Reflected in the mirrors on these pages are scenes of home with Father and Mother ever ready to share our school life, and pictures of school where happy experiences are gained with teachers and classmates. Here, also, are revealed our hopes, aspirations, and ideals which are not so very different from those of boys and girls who attended Schurz many years ago. Shadowy forms of grandmother and grandfather slip from out the edges of the mirrors, bringing memories of days of long ago. While styles and customs change, home and school are still the center of our lives and happiness. Whether "east or west, home is best."

HOME SWEET HOME

LORETTA ZILKE

"Honor thy father and thy mother" is one of the Ten Commandments.

Honor the mother who waved a cheery good-bye when first we set out with failing heart for that brave new world called "school."

Honor thy father who was always ready to help with a chart or a miniature Panama Canal or any one of a thousand other things that school demanded.

Honor the parents who shared our small triumphs and defeats; who rejoiced over a "Good" report card and hoped for a better one when it was poor.

Honor the parents who sent us off to high school and gave us courage to face the terrors of being a "freshie."

To "Ma," who couldn't sleep till we arrived home from the prom, and to "Pa," who cheerfully footed all the bills, we wish to express our gratitude.

To our parents, who are always on hand to give counsel and encouragement — who stood by us from kindergarten through high school — we affectionately dedicate this book.

The sanctity of the home and the widest of educational opportunities are ideals cherished by all Americans. Superintendent Johnson counts among his sunny hours those spent with Mrs. Johnson and his little daughter, Patty. Patty, wide-eyed and eager, is probably thinking of the day, not too far distant, when she, too, will enjoy high school, following our sundial's legend to "Count only the sunny hours."

At the doors of Schurz . . .

. . . the legend on the sundial reads . . .

. . . "Count Only the Sunny Hours"

To the Students of Schurz —

You have dedicated your 1944 SCHURZONE quite appropriately to your mothers and fathers. During these trying war days with their demands for united efforts in Red Cross, scrap drives, bond and stamp sales, and general war activities, when our families are being called upon to make supreme sacrifices, it is fitting that you should honor those who are bravely striving to hold fast to the ideals of the American Family. In this Schurz Family Album are those familiar home and school scenes and activities which, reproduced all over the country, make America.

dinner, the family gathers to talk of school, the SCHUR-ZONE's out; to listen to the radio; to explain to Mother, as she mends, the tool made in shop; or to enjoy a home band concert . . . Through the days run thoughts of those in service as stamps and bonds are proudly counted and the service flag in the window is honored.

Reflecting the Sunny Hours

Our friends in the community and our teachers enjoyed the tea held at the opening of our very lovely Social Room. Its beauty of color and furnishings was admired by all our visitors.

We are very fortunate in having this attractive and useful room as an addition to our building, and are thankful to Mr. Bauersfeld and the 1943 SCHURZONE, whose support made it financially possible.

Miss Goelz and her Social Committee under Miss Keenan and Miss Quirk assisted in the selection of the furniture.

Spent in Our Social Room

The seniors were among the first to entertain proudly in the Social Room. Clubs and class groups fell under its charm as teas, conferences, and parties were held here.

The perfection of the room, due to its interior design, is the creation of a member of our Faculty, Miss Katharine Schmidt, who also executed the two large oil paintings and the lovely screens.

The following are the other members of the room committee: the Misses Everist, Kober, Sylvester, Tschan, and Mrs. Van Valzah.

No picture of American Family life today is complete without mention of its patriotic service. Schurz family is no exception; all clubs and organizations have included in their programs for the year some form of war activity. These scenes of preparing attractive gifts for service men through the War Drive, of selling bonds, of collecting scrap and paper were repeated many times throughout the year.

Our Social Room was the scene of many gatherings. Our school entertained the North Side Art Teachers and Supervisors at a tea, at which Miss Jane Palczynski invited Miss Elizabeth Robertson, the Director of Art in Chicago, to speak. Mrs. Helen Spero, the director of the Milwaukee Handcraft Project, gave an interesting account of her work and exhibited some very fine art pieces. At Christmas, the P.T.A. held their meeting in our Social Room; and everybody enjoyed tea and music. June brought good-bye to Mr. Willard and Mr. Slepicka, to whom we give many cheers for their cooperation and service.

"Knowledge Is Power." This adage was carefully embroidered on samplers of grandmother's day and adorned the walls of the homes of Schurz students of long ago. Today, because of the unselfish endeavors of the administrative staff and faculty, this adage is being embroidered into the lives of Schurz students in a practical way through education. Daily our teachers strive to offer each student an opportunity to develop fully his understanding, not alone of books and subjects, but also of men and affairs; for "knowledge is power."

IN MEMORIAM

Schurz faculty and students honor the memory of Miss Marguaretta Walsh, teacher of Biology, Mr. Alfred C. Field, teacher of Physics, and Miss Ruth Lichter, teacher of English. Their service and devotion to the ideals of Schurz will long be an inspiration to all who knew them.

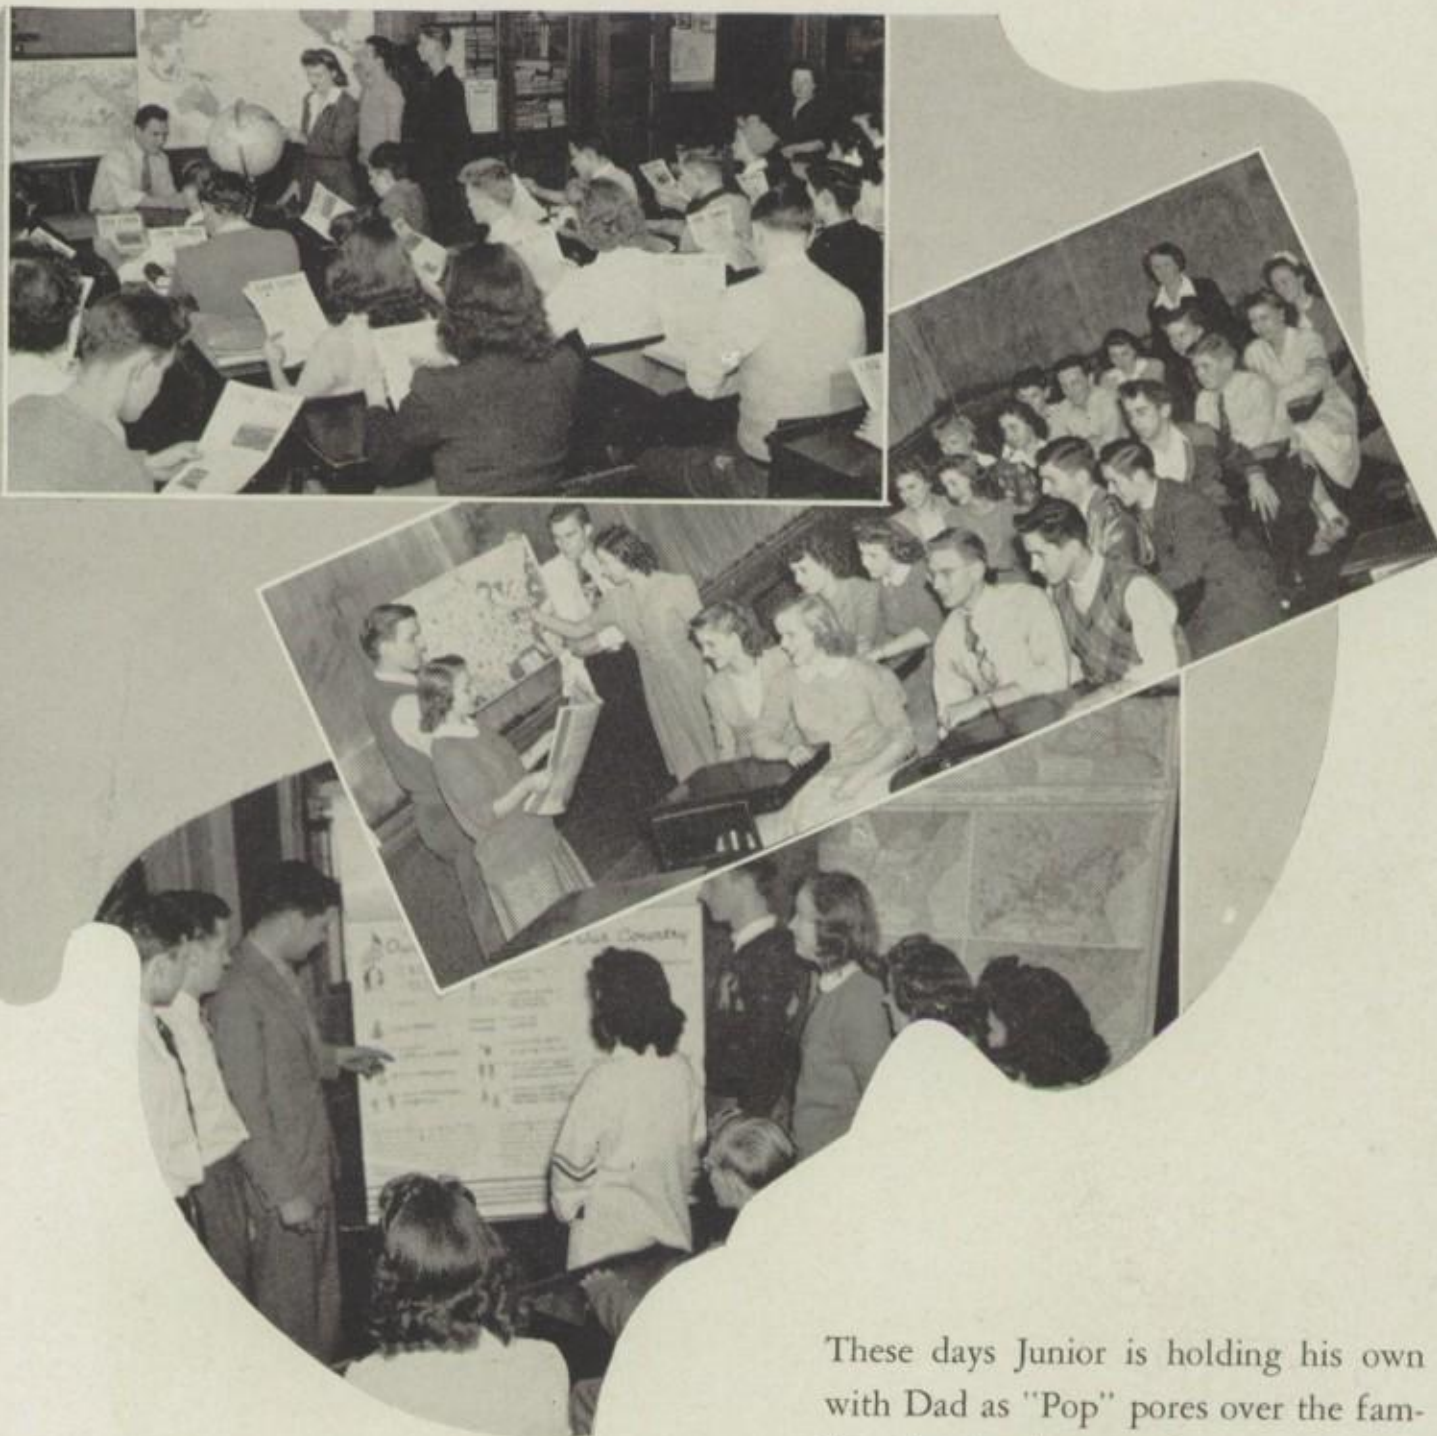

Getting Ready to Challenge Dad's Shakespeare

The first taste of Shakespeare comes right after "Treasure Island" and Poe. A few semesters later pupils are staring blankly into space mumbling, "Friends, Romans, and countrymen, —" or trying their best to appreciate lyric poetry. Junior may not see the importance of his English class at first, but soon he starts avoiding double negatives and discovers that he actually enjoys his "home reading." Then the English department has done its job, teaching pupils to make the best uses of English in daily life.

English classes pictured here show pupils earnestly working to improve their reading skills, gaining improved library skills to help them in research problems, and making selections from the room circulating library. A student librarian gains practical experience in checking out books to classmates and keeping the library files up to date.

Trying to Keep Up With This Changing World

These days Junior is holding his own with Dad as "Pop" pores over the family atlas figuring out how to win the war. The two of them keep the family's conversation up to date, and if Junior's strategy rivals Dad's it is due to his Social Studies classes at Schurz. Here, he learns of other wars and of the geography of the world's battle fields. His interest in today's news is also stimulated in class, for Current Events is an important study for the fellows and girls who will be making tomorrow's news. Miss Wincher's History VI and Civics classes made use of the study and became contenders in the National Current Events Contest which is sponsored by the American Education Press, publishers of "Our Times." Schurz has been very proud of its winners and their success in these Contests, for our students compete against the very best from high schools all over the country.

Our Language Department

The language of the ancient Romans is studied today not only because it is mother to French, Spanish, and Italian, but because it forms the basis for many of our English words as well.

The beauty of the language of Schiller and Goethe should not be lost in the war-torn world. The German department has therefore attempted to preserve the German culture in its purity. Both their language and their literature should help us to understand the German people after Hitler has been disarmed.

This war has taught us the importance of closer relations with the American republics. A knowledge of their language is therefore becoming more valuable. The Spanish department has this year emphasized spoken rather than written Spanish. The pupils in the classes have learned not only to read, but also to converse in the language of our neighbors to the south.

Some Sunny Hours in Language Classes

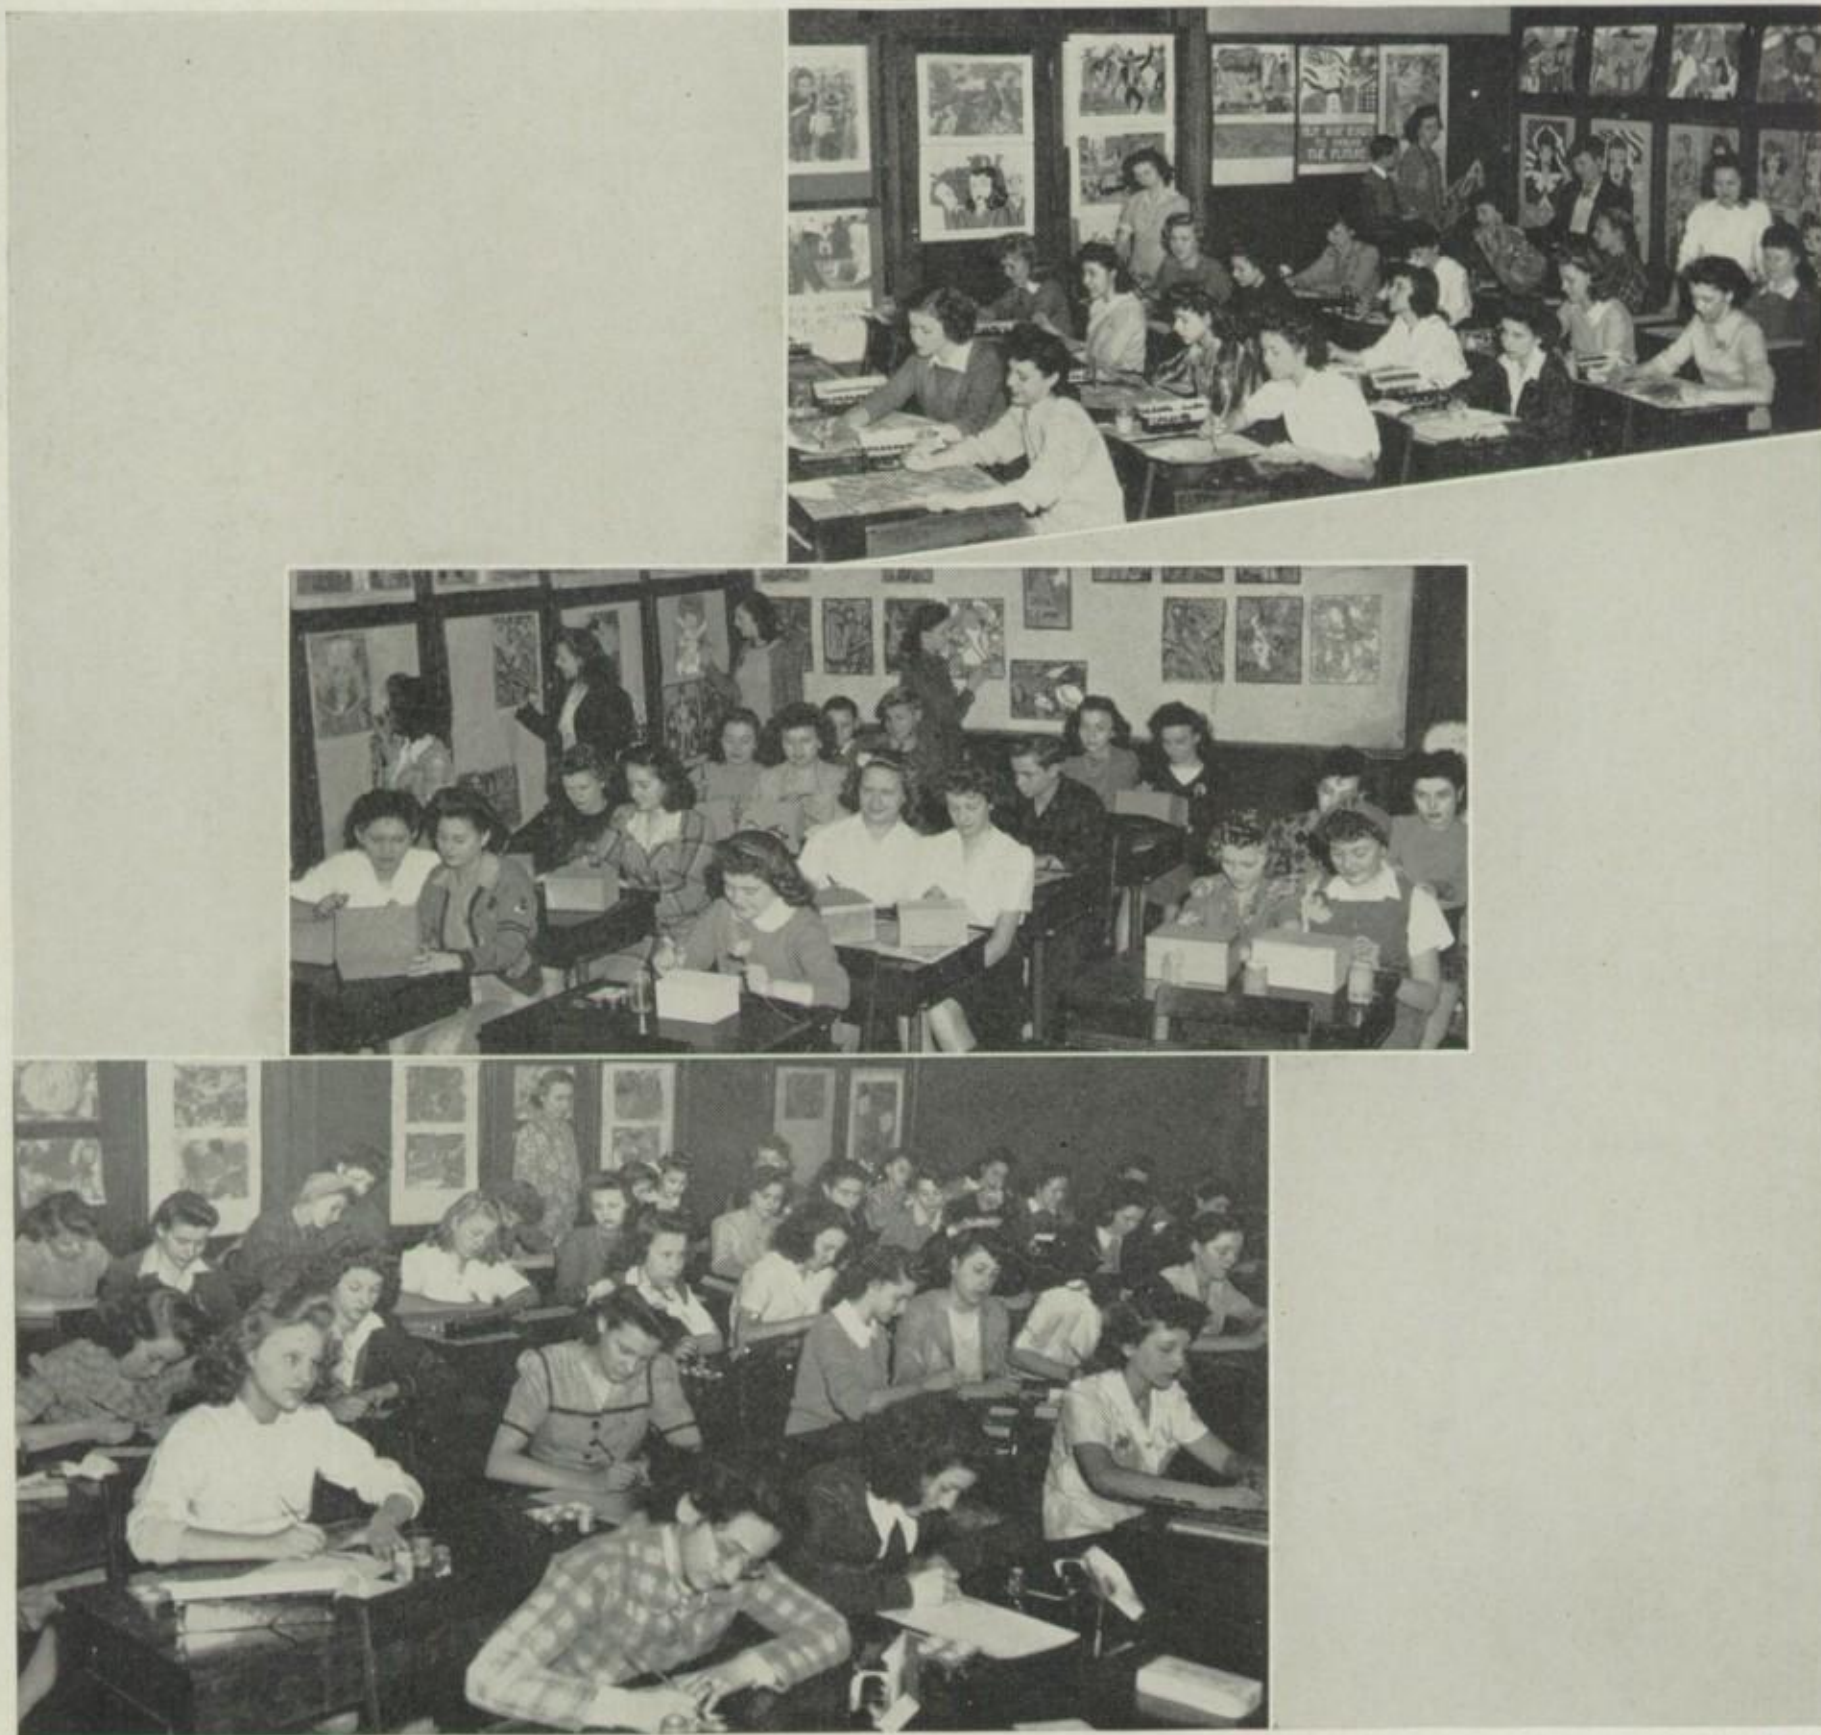

This semester, each French class is organized as a French Club under the direction of the first period Advanced French Class. Each class begins its session with these words: "La classe commence. La séance du Circle Francais est ouvert." This means "The class will begin; the meeting of the Club of France is open." Besides the regular class work of translating exercises, learning vocabulary and grammatical forms, the pupils learn to sing French songs as these class members are doing in the picture.

Chicago's large Polish population makes the study of their mother tongue an important subject in the school curriculum. Here students gain a better understanding of Polish culture and customs. In the picture, the students are holding typical Polish Christmas tree ornaments, made from egg shells and decorated with colored tin-foil.

Designing Beauty for Home and School

The Chicago School Children's Fair at the Art Institute last December inspired varied activities in Mrs. Joyce's art classes. With paints and a bit of ingenuity, they made wooden lapel buttons and papier-mache Christmas ornaments which they packed in hand-decorated boxes. For our own school, they made original clean-up posters and decorations for the school's Christmas trees.

Dusty chalk and paint smeared hands are the woe of every art student, but multicolored fingers are justified by the results. Mrs. Wallingsford's art classes made colorful illustrations of South America. Their lovely embroidered purses, another successful project, were sold at the School Children's Fair.

There was extra work in Schurz art classes—work with a purpose. Mrs. Wulff's Art I classes contributed brightly colored holiday menu covers and book markers to the Red Cross. The Art II classes used patriotic themes for their compositions, basing them on victory gardening and the Four Freedoms.

All Keyed Up and Ready to Type

All keyed up and ready to type are these members of Miss Quirk's Commercial class. Many of these owners of nimble fingers have cheerfully volunteered their time to help in school typing, looking forward to a job of key woman in that office of their dreams. Depend upon the girls upon the keys.

ODE TO A WOODSTOCK

*Pecking blindly on blank key-boards,
Forty minutes every day,
Eager eyes glancing clockwards,
Watching seconds tick away.*

*Nervous minutes, weekly speed tests,
With a hope of high perfection,
Endless errors, same low test marks,
Plunge us down in deep dejection.*

*Typing slowly, brings no surcease,
Class bell halts the half-done lesson;
Another finger nail is broken,
Gone another typing session.*

—CAROL DRATH

Filing in Memory the ABC's of Shorthand

A is for accuracy, that prods us along
The hard road of half lengths and phrases.
Our spirits are willing (though not very strong).
Our test marks do not win us praises.

B is for brilliance (flickering weakly)
Through Pitman's mystical maze
Of light strokes, dark strokes, circles, and loops
Plunging us into dense baze.

C is for correctness — our one final goal
Which looms like a challenge beyond.
While pounding the keyboard or pushing our pencils
We work so this goal may be found.

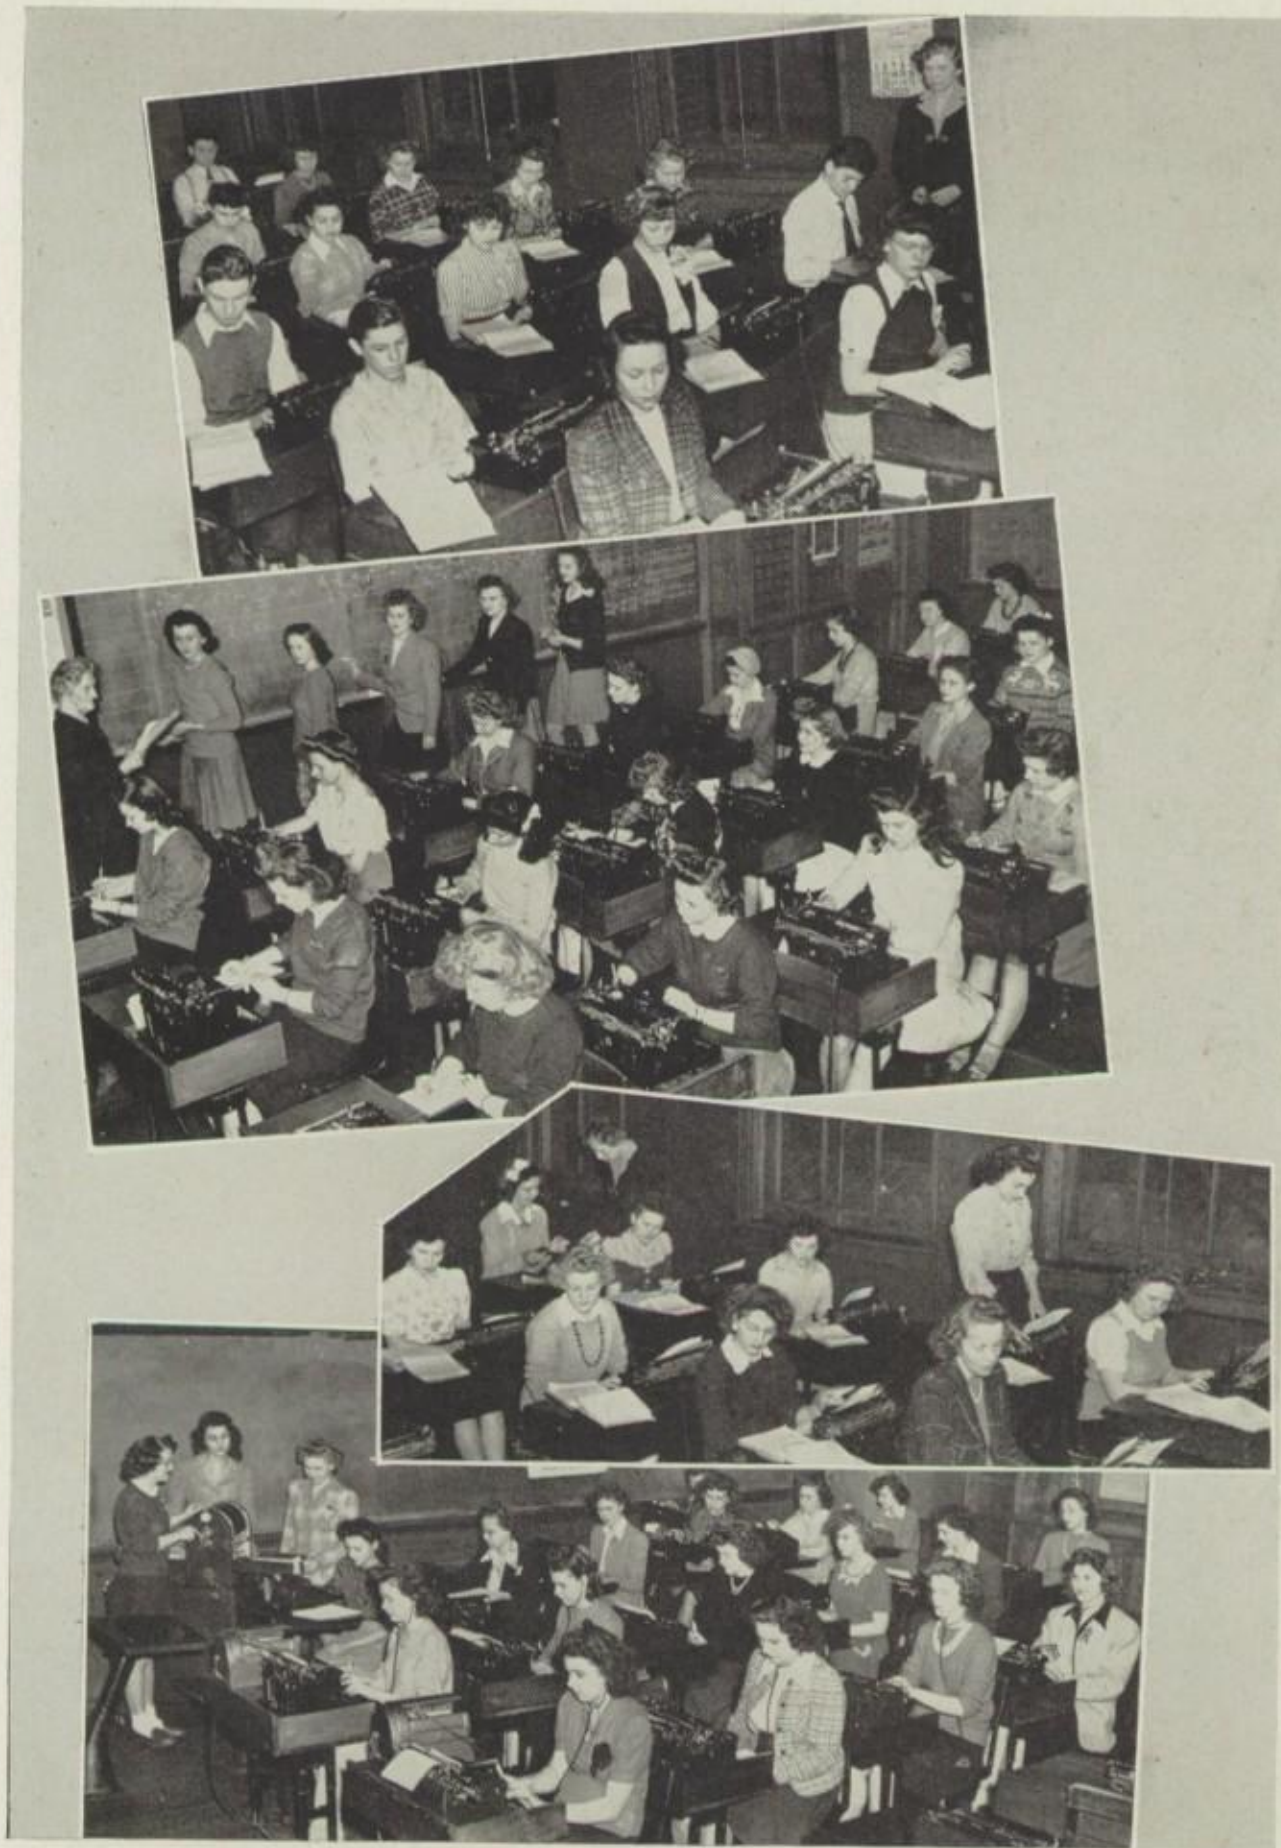

D is for dots and for baffling dashes
Which each little student should know,
And for diphthongs and diphones and slippery tri-phones
Proving a horrible foe.

E is for effort — there's plenty of that 'Til spirits do wither and droop;
'Til we finish each homework assignment, Each short form, each curl and each loop.

F is our finish. We've told you our tale And thank you for lending an ear.
Long is our groan, and loud is our wail, But the best of stenOs come from here!

—CAROL DRATH

Today's Students, But Tomorrow's Secretaries

Looking to the future, Susy Schurzite struggles with vowels and short forms in our stenography classes. She plunges through blends and intersections with pencil in hand and plenty of hard work. There is no doubt about the practical use of these studies, for in many cases they will be pupils' very jobs after graduation. These hours of study and homework seem long, but, upon completion, pupils will face the business world prepared to take their place in the world of tomorrow.

Beware Their Sales Appeal, Mrs. Public

While flipping through a magazine, you have probably stopped a moment for a second look at a peppy advertisement that caught your attention. Miss Russell's Sales classes are interested in discovering just why some advertisements arouse immediate interest while others are passed without a glance. Desirable business locations, profitable advertising, and other such factors pertaining to a successful business are studied.

Office Practice Prepares Pupils for Business

Only the best deserve to win. Schurz offers to those who are proficient in Stenography and Typing a course in Office Practice during their senior year. Under the direction of Miss Schubert these pupils are taught to use the machines that they will encounter in an up-to-date office, such as Mimeograph, Ditto duplicator, Dictaphone, and various kinds of calculators. Attitudes and practices which control an efficient office are the engrossing problems which engage the attention of these earnest students. The skill that these girls gain, as well as the training in office etiquette that they receive, prepares them for a successful business career.

With Pencils Poised

The Commercial Department offers a well-balanced, unified training in all things pertaining to business. Whether the student plans to use this knowledge and skill for his own personal use, or for a business or college career, the choice of subjects is wide enough to permit each one to suit his interests and abilities. These shorthand students, shown here at their lessons, are trying hard to meet the requirements of taking dictation at one hundred words per minute and transcribing it as accurately and neatly as possible.

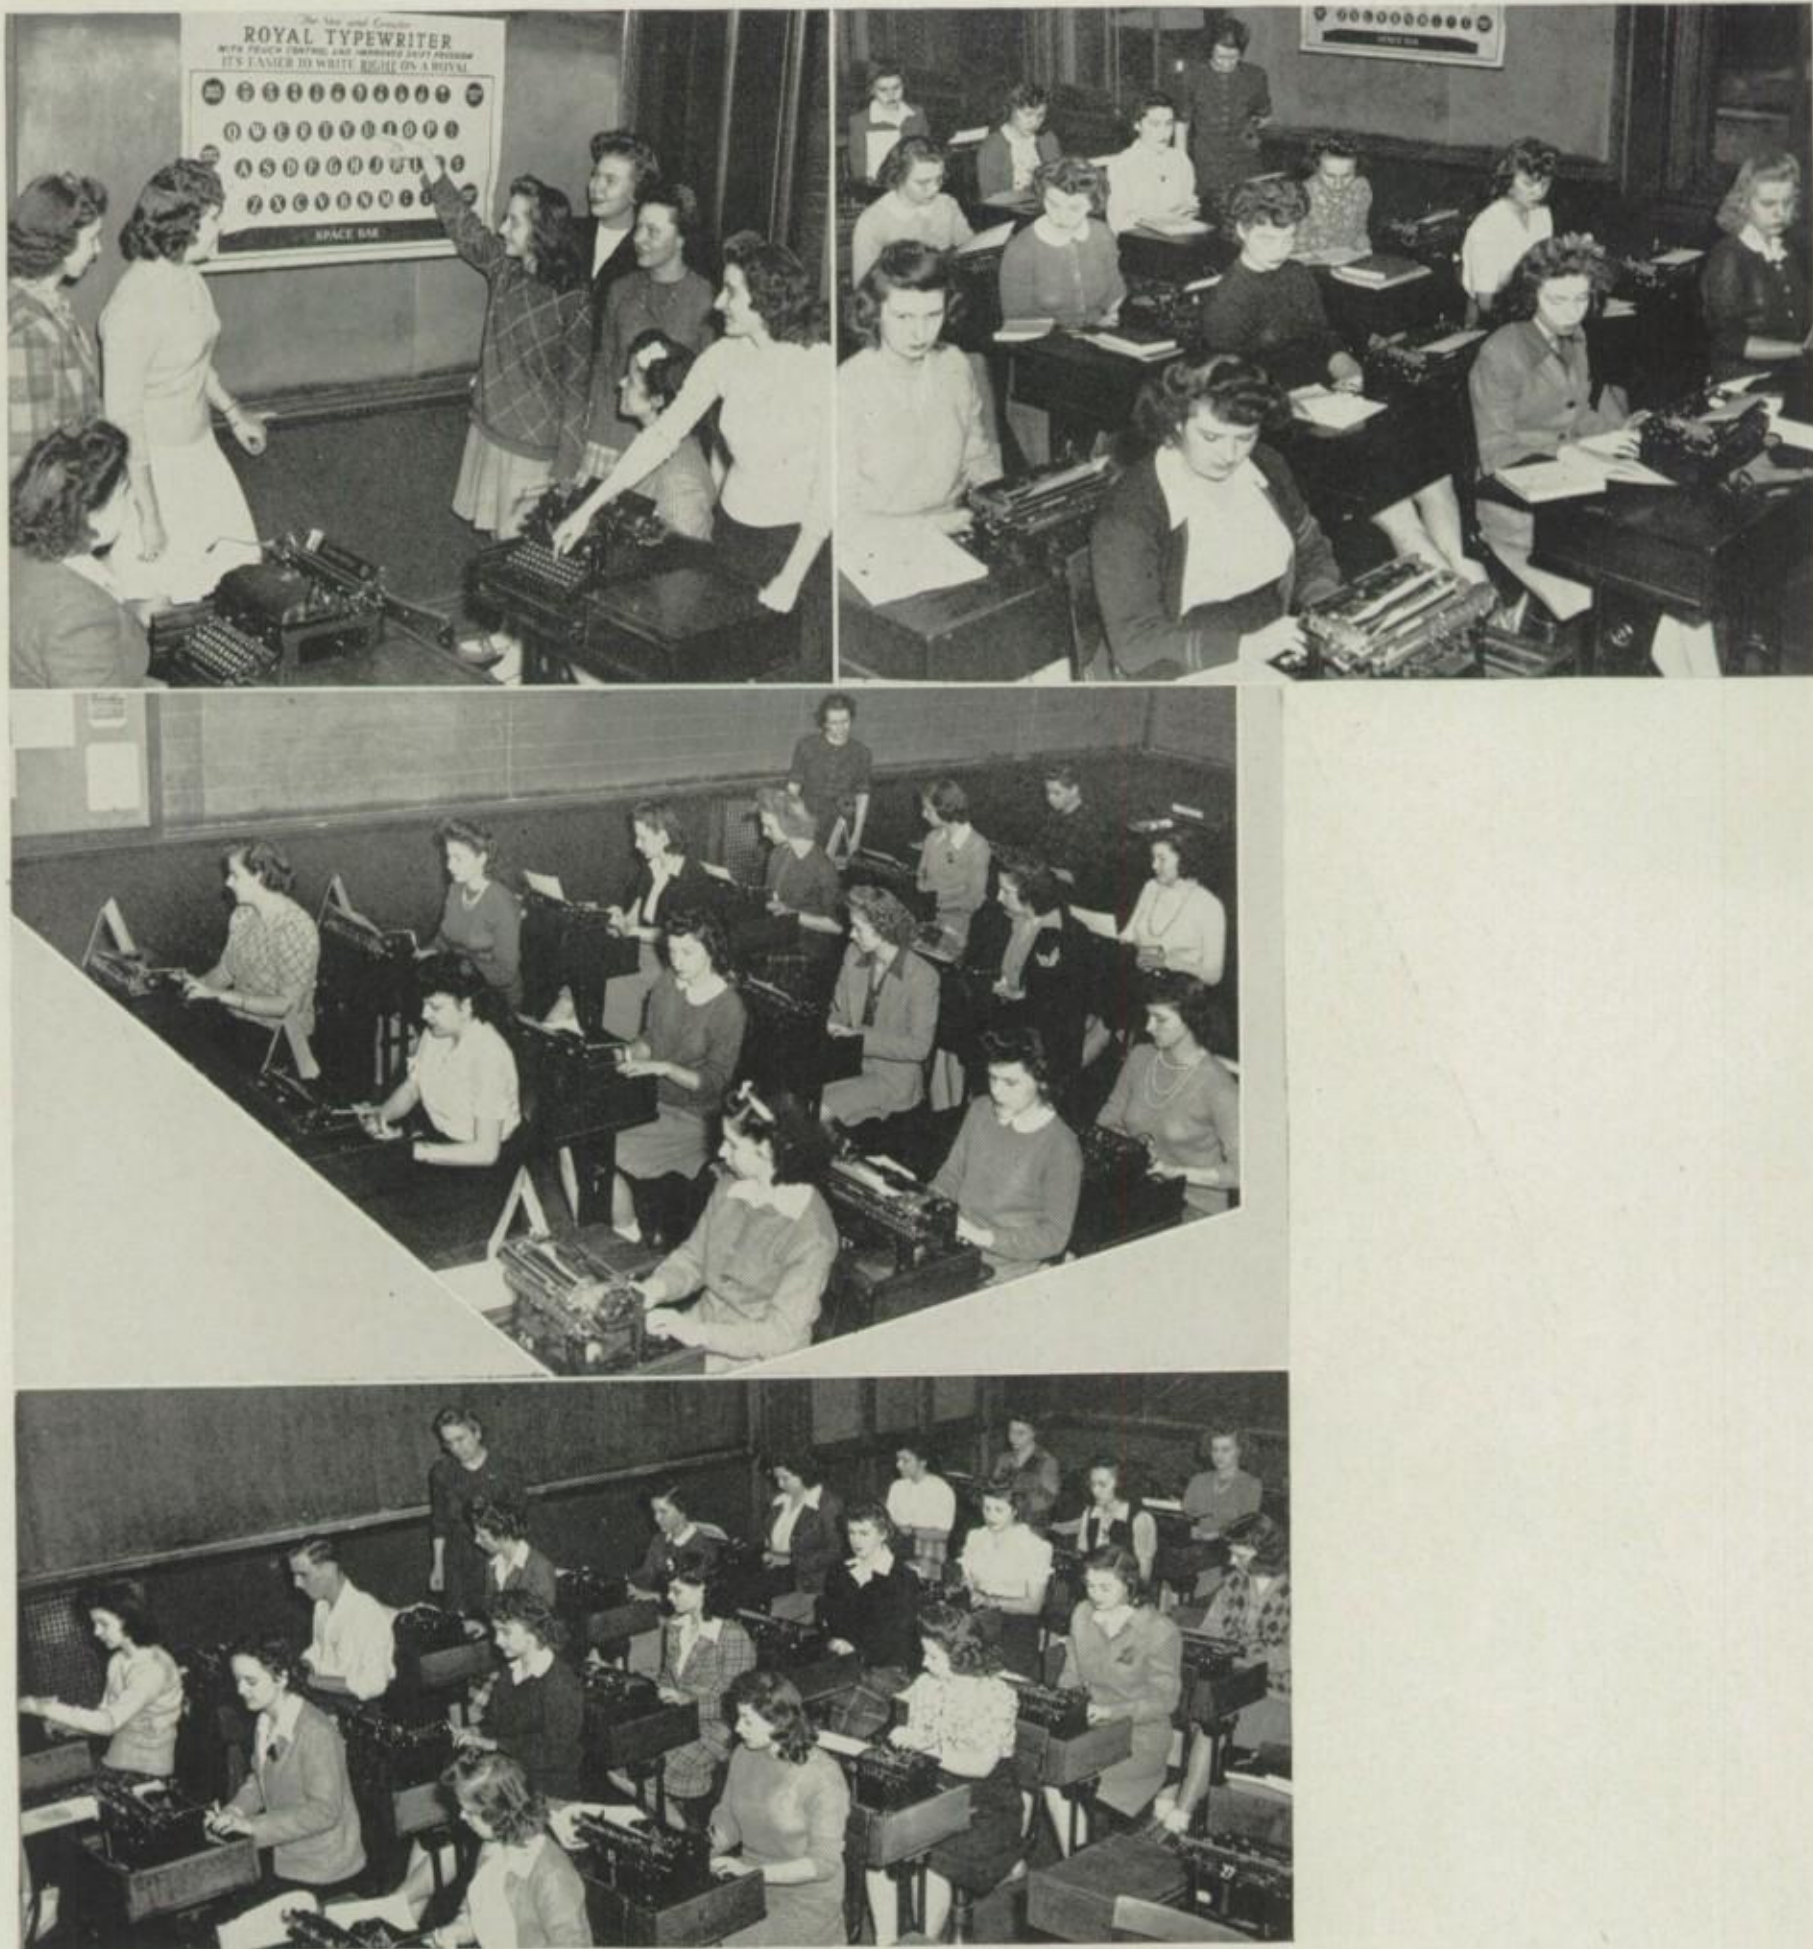

Adding Machine Aids

Probably the all-time high in self-disgust comes when one of our perspiring comptometrists slams the wrong key as she nears the last line of an exercise, but Miss Kilpatrick gives the drooping student courage to tackle that grim lesson again and helps her to learn the whims and ways of a temperamental comptometer which so magically adds, subtracts, multiplies, and divides.

Students Know That Nimble Fingers Win

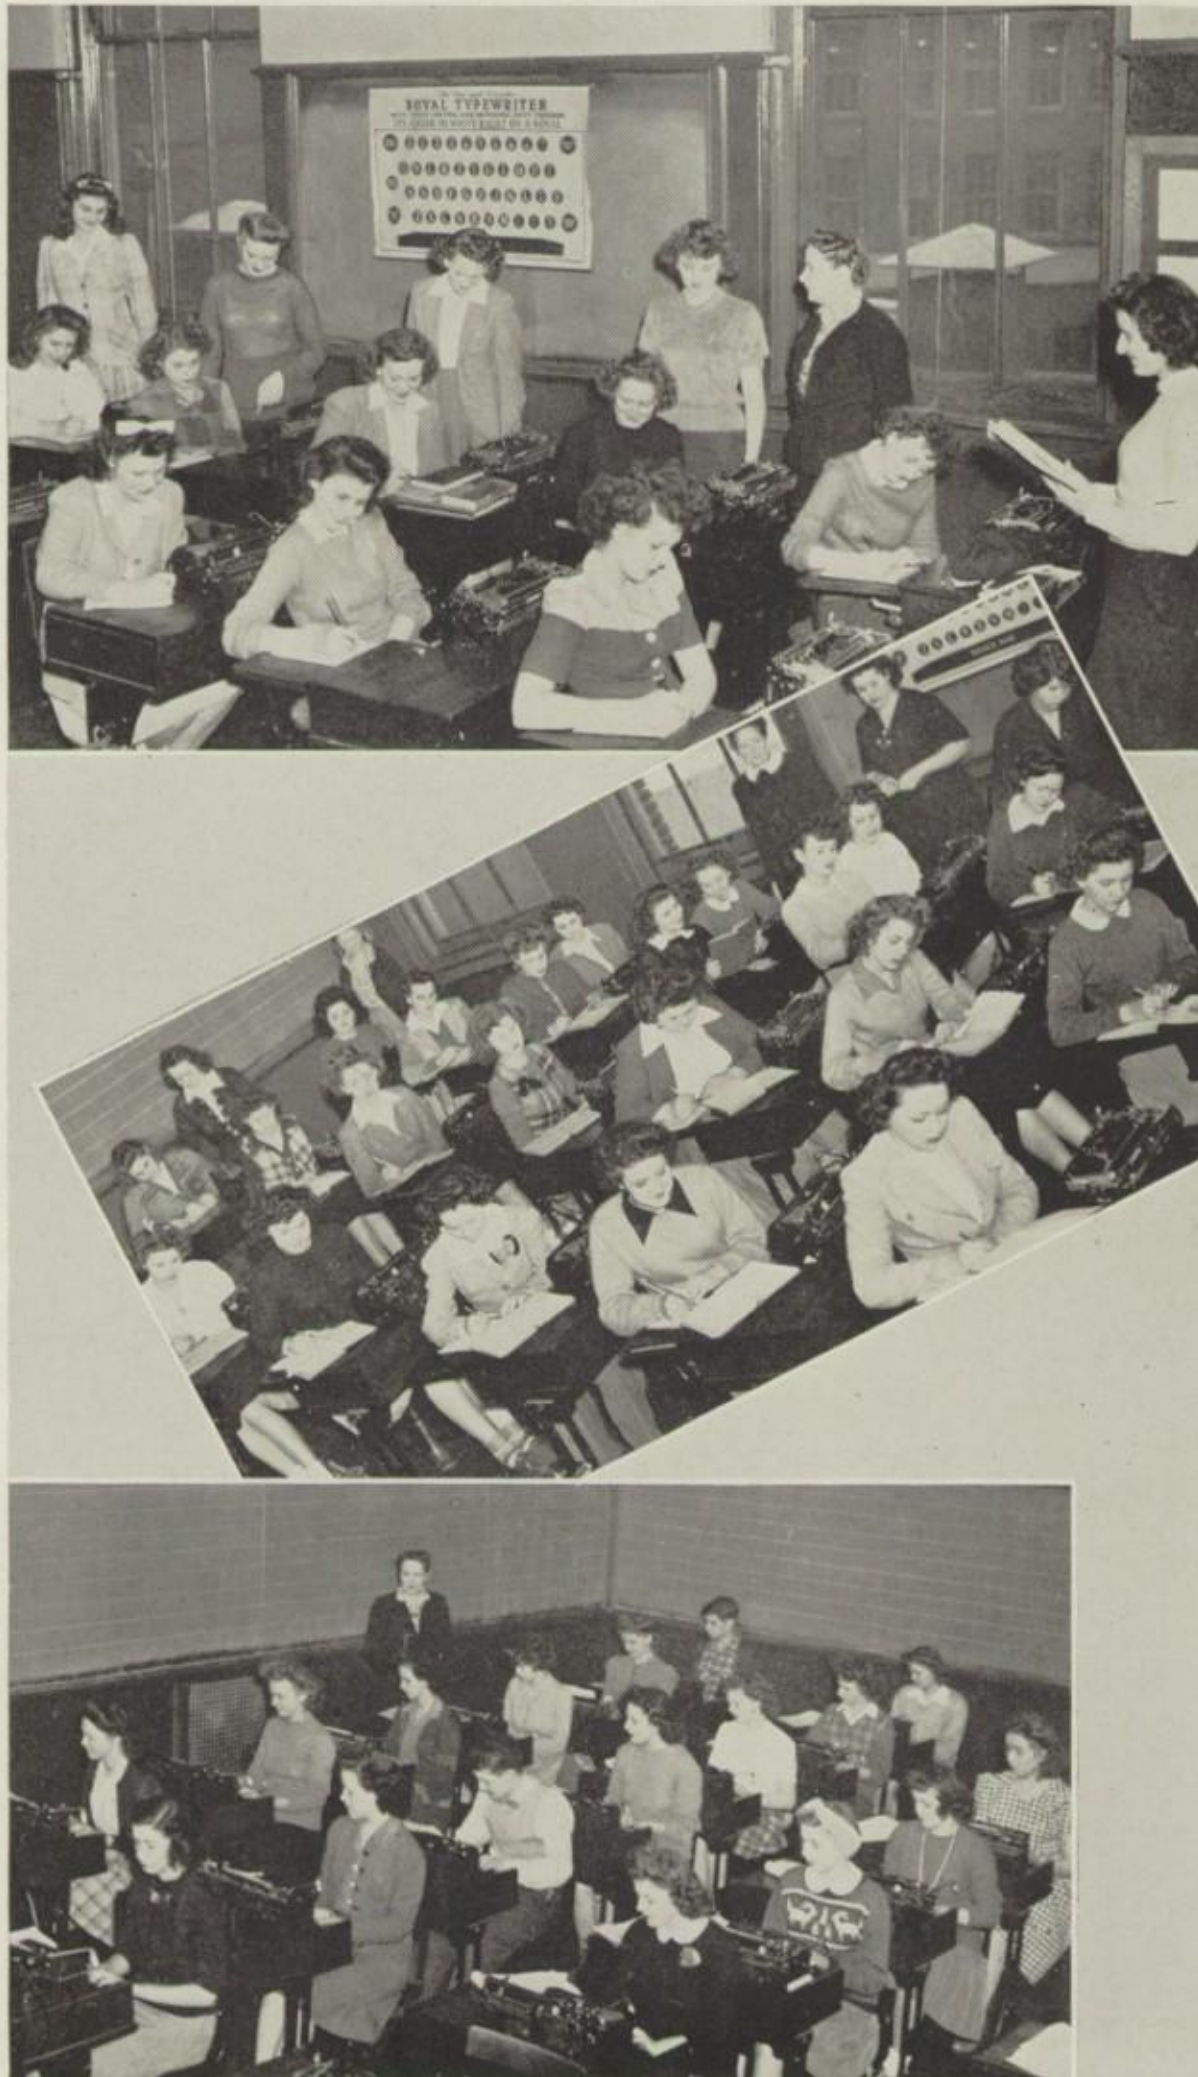

Speed and accuracy! Long hours of practice daily finally lead to proficiency. Patriotically, our future stenographers prepare to take Civil Service tests offered by the government the second week in May. If they pass these rigid tests, they are quickly placed in government positions. Miss Blade, the head of the Commercial Department, efficiently trains our girls competently to fill such positions.

Yearning to Hear: "Take a Letter, Please"

Taking her first peek at a page of Pitman hieroglyphics, Janie Junior leans back with a clammy feeling and a gasp of wonderment. How is she ever going to read those confusing things? But with Miss Michel's help, she soon is translating even the most perplexing outlines.

Those first few days were certainly the hardest. The class started typing by spending several days on the "asdf jkl;" routine of Lesson 1. It seemed that they would never learn the keys, but now they're dashing out letters with a firm hand and holding their own in tests.

Business Trends and Family Finances Studied

Listen, my children, and lend an ear

To this tale of bookkeeping horrors taught here.

*From Cash on Hand
to Accounts Receivable,*

We delve into every ledger conceivable.

There's many a struggle with a stubborn work sheet,

*Untangling its errors
is no simple feat;*

But we sweat through these problems that cause us such grief

'Til finally success comes surpassing belief.

Lais Leashberg

In Miss Woelfel's Business Organization and Bookkeeping classes economic problems which cause periods of depression are discussed.

In Business Training and Bookkeeping Classes

In Miss G. Hill's Business Training classes students learn the fundamental elements of office technique.

*Here's more of our story of bookkeeping terrors —
Of ruling and posting
and juggling our errors,
Of adjusting and closing
and groping for thought,
Leaving us haggard
with brains all distraught;
And the month hits a climax with the dreaded "blue test"
Holding dozens of worries
for even the best.
Through all this we flounder,
and worry, and fret —
Through debits and credits and the hardest class yet!*

— CAROL DRATH

Preparing for Monday, Tuesday, and Everyday

It takes firm perseverance for the beginner to unravel the mysteries of a complicated pattern, but with their clothing-teacher's helping hand, these girls grapple with seams and button holes and reach some gratifying results. They also study color harmony in clothing; and the value of a neat personal appearance is emphasized.

With Our Student Homemakers

With a minimum of culinary casualties, the girls in our foods classes whip up many a tasty menu. Hard effort really goes into this cooking, for the girls have to eat their own dishes. They here learn to spot a choice piece of meat and to plan meals supplying all the necessary calories, vitamins, and minerals needed for health.

Speed! Light! Sound!

Speed, Safety, Improvement! These are the slogans of physics. Through this subject, the pupil comes to understand natural phenomena and through this knowledge works better, safer, and faster. Experiments on sound and light, magnetism and electricity, heat engines and motors fill the days of the physics students. Here they learn that a thing must be proved before it can be taken for a fact. Here they become aware of the superior precision and conciseness of scientific language and are soon motivated to adopt it in expressing themselves.

Aha! Sulphur Compounds

In time of war prepare for peace! That is exactly what chemistry is doing now. Stimulated by the demands of war the chemist has revealed untold new wealth which will in the peace to come remake our homes and daily lives. It is a long step between the chemist in industry and Johnny in Chemistry I, but many a serious-minded student with a social consciousness to be of value to mankind has had his beginnings here in Schurz Chemistry Laboratory. When odors of sulphur permeate the halls, perhaps a famed chemist is in the making.

Applying Science to Home and School Life

To each Freshie comes the clammy pleasure of meeting the school skeleton when his General Science class delves into physiology. Later, these same students are poring over the swirling lines of a weather map, sketching a class experiment, or pondering heavily over some scientific principle of heat, light, magnetism, electricity, or simple machines. The course covers a wide range of fundamental science, but each phase is studied thoroughly with an eye toward practical use. From constellations to osmotic pressure, it's all part of the subject matter of this versatile class which provides every Schurz student with a solid foundation for advanced scientific fields.

Is It a Weed or Flower, Butterfly or Pest?

BIOLOGY — the study of plants and animals. How dull it sounds, but how fascinating it really is! In the early fall the students collect and mount weeds gathered on various field trips. They study not only the characteristics of weeds but how to control them.

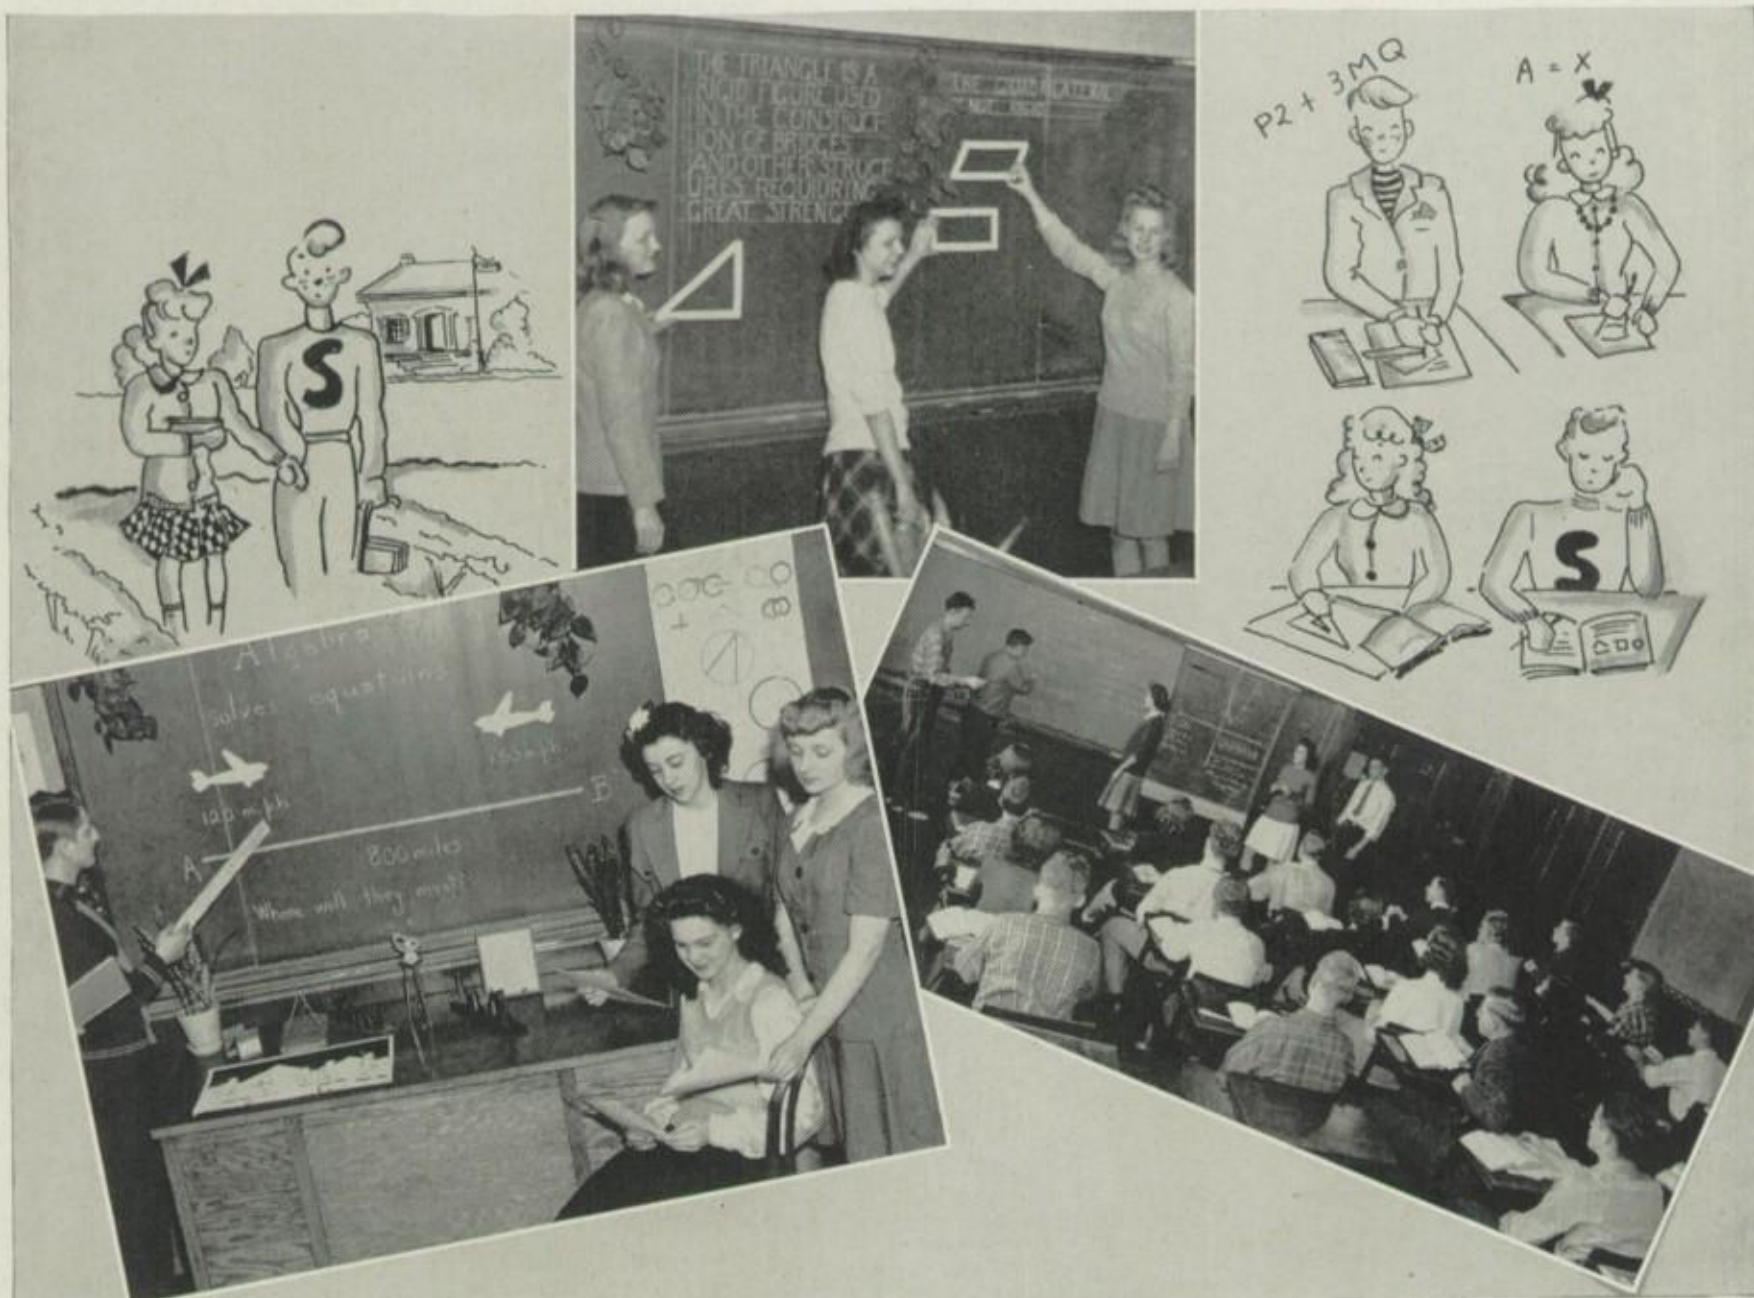

From weeds they go on to the study of insects and how important they are to man and to the existence of this world. Butterflies, beetles, bugs of all sorts are examined and dissected to learn what makes them "tick."

A new world unseen by the naked eye is opened through the lens of a microscope. Here the students view for the first time a world of strange, queer shapes. The field trips, the practical work in the laboratory, and the descriptive lectures and demonstrations make biology a truly fascinating subject.

In a World of Slide Rule and Compass

MATH

Upper — G. O'Connor, D. Kubinski, B. Buettner.

Lower Left — A. Dembowski, M. Hausburg, B. Cantrell, A. Parisi.

Graphs and figures, lines and angles, have always been an important study, but the war has placed new emphasis on higher mathematics. In the service, in aeronautics, in war industries, a knowledge of mathematics is indispensable. Algebra explains the relations of numbers by signs and symbols. Geometry deals with the relations of surfaces, lines, and angles. Trigonometry, the study of the relations holding among the sides and angles of triangles, is invaluable in the field of aeronautics. In a war-torn world the sciences remain exact, essential, and none is more vital than the science of mathematics.

May They All Be Sunny Hours, Mr. Slepicka

Mr. Francis B. Slepicka will shake off the wood shavings and sawdust of Room 175 for the last time when school closes in June, but it really will not be good-bye, for Mr. Slepicka has become a part of Schurz, a part which we will never forget. Not only has Mr. Slepicka been active in our Tech department, but he has frequently been called upon to supplement the art department. By no means does Mr. Slepicka intend to retire into an inactive life, for he has purchased a ten-acre farm near Glen Ellyn where he will be able to garden and anticipate no food shortages. We now pay tribute to an honored friend and wish him the best that life can hold.

This year more than ever before, our war industries are depending upon boys who have had training in our shops to help make and produce the vital materials which are needed so badly for our war effort. Under the skillful guidance of Mr. Hanselman, Mr. Reischmann, Mr. Slepicka, and Mr. Sutherland, the boys in the workshops are learning the fundamentals of woodworking.

Family Cars Rejuvenated

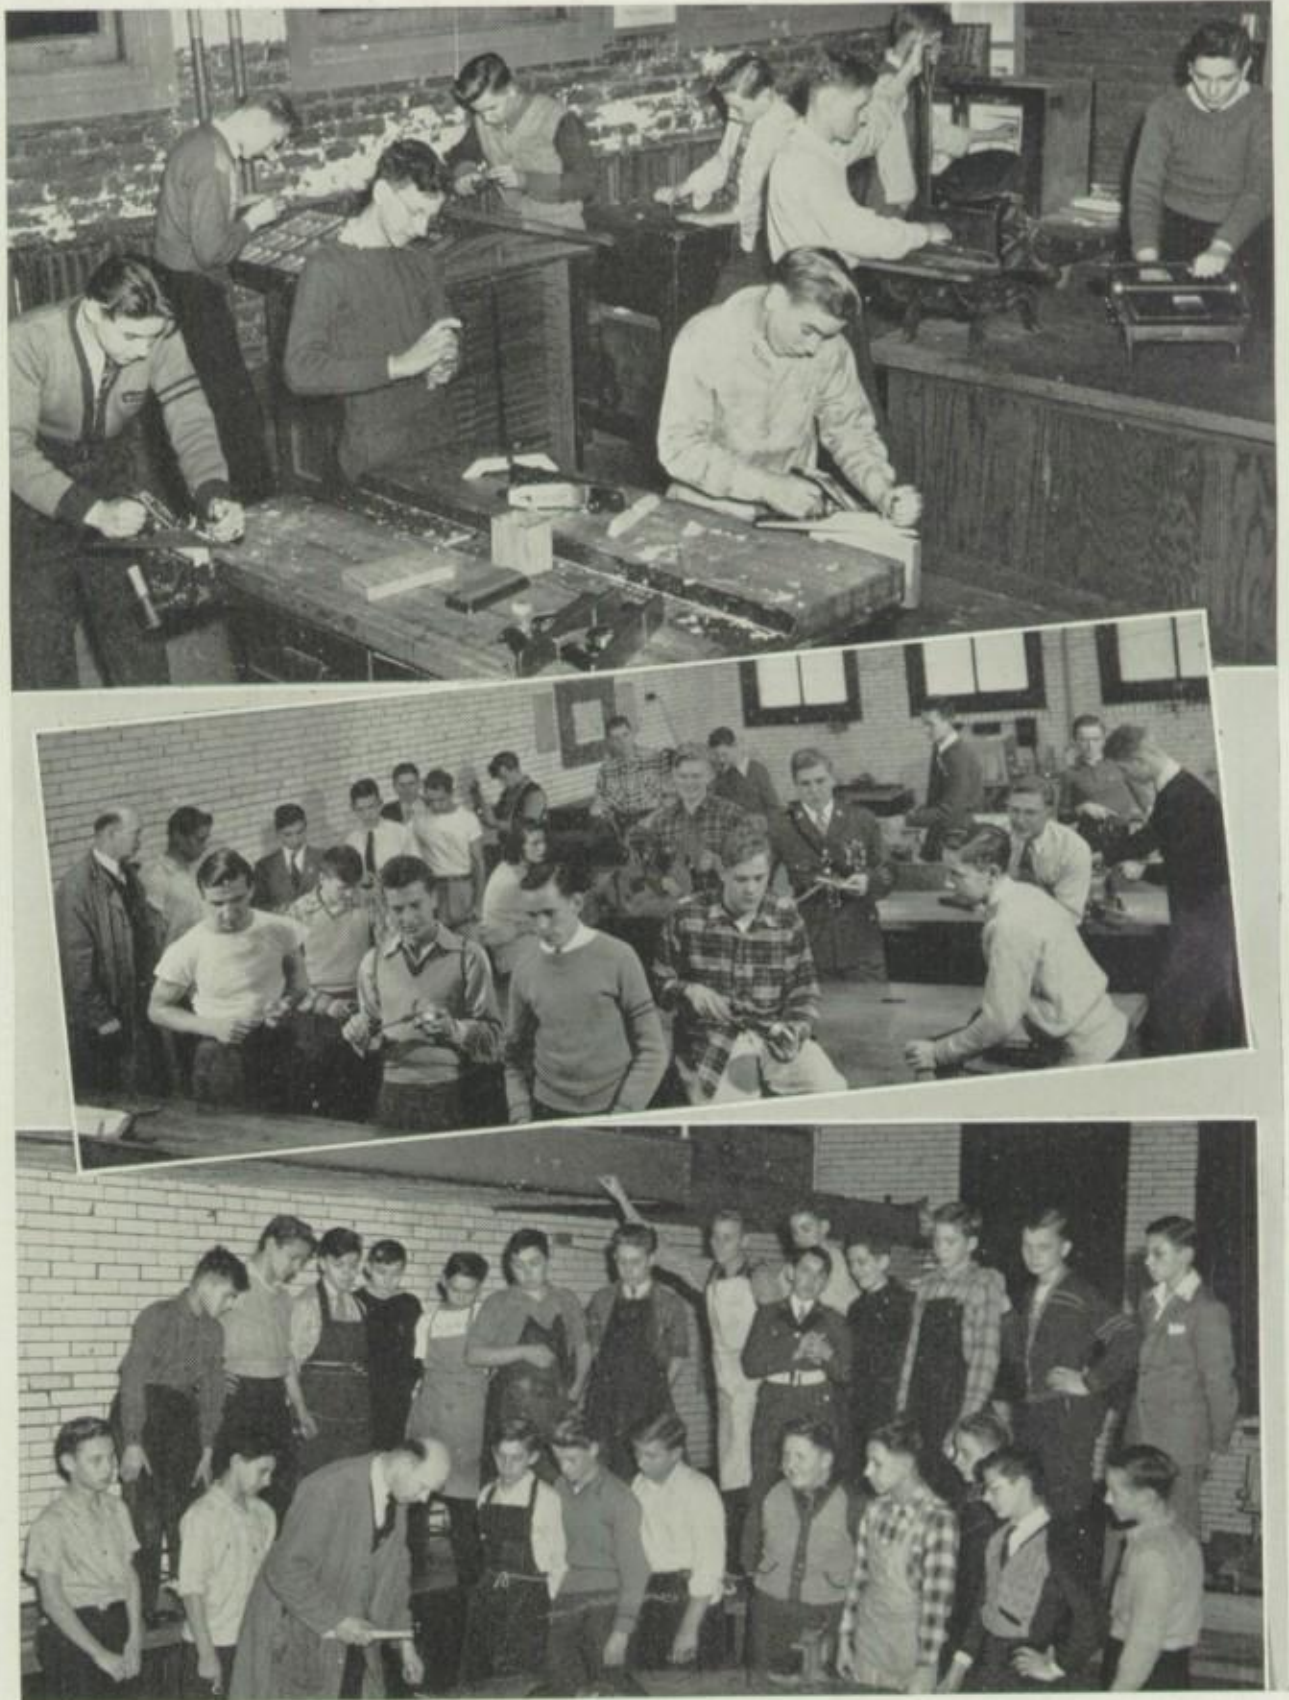

Power and efficiency is the demand of Mr. John Car Owner regardless of make. The understanding of the "why" of power and the "how" of efficiency comes only through a working knowledge of the physics of automotive mechanics. It takes the ability to work with wrench and pliers, dirt, grease, and oil, and "love" it. Junior gets this opportunity in the auto shop where he may learn to repair the family car correctly. Then the family will not go gray every time he gets the urge to fix the car.

The Clang of the Forge Brings Victory Near

The working of iron and steel is unquestionably one of the oldest of arts. We learn from the Bible that iron was produced and used at a very early date. Iron and steel play an important part in, and is one of, the major industries. The boys in the Schurz Forge Shop get a complete course in the forging and welding of iron and steel. Various operations require special heating. The student is required to learn the names, also the use of the tools and power-driven machinery in the shop.

Cookie Cutters for "Ma"

To the rhythmic beat of pounding hammers and grinding chisels, rows of boys are working with a determined air. Occasionally a puzzled expression flits across their faces. While we are standing puzzled also, wondering which of Schurz many shops we have entered, a boy smilingly explains that we are in the Industrial Arts Shop. With the very helpful assistance of Mr. Drdla, who teaches the course, we notice the boys making different articles all connected with metal work. They skillfully fashion trays, paper knives, hammers, screwdrivers, or calipers to please both Mother and Dad. In this shop, they learn about Art Metal Work, and Sheet Metal Work; in Fundamentals of Shop, the boys touch upon most of the shop courses offered in school.

School Shift Mans the Machines

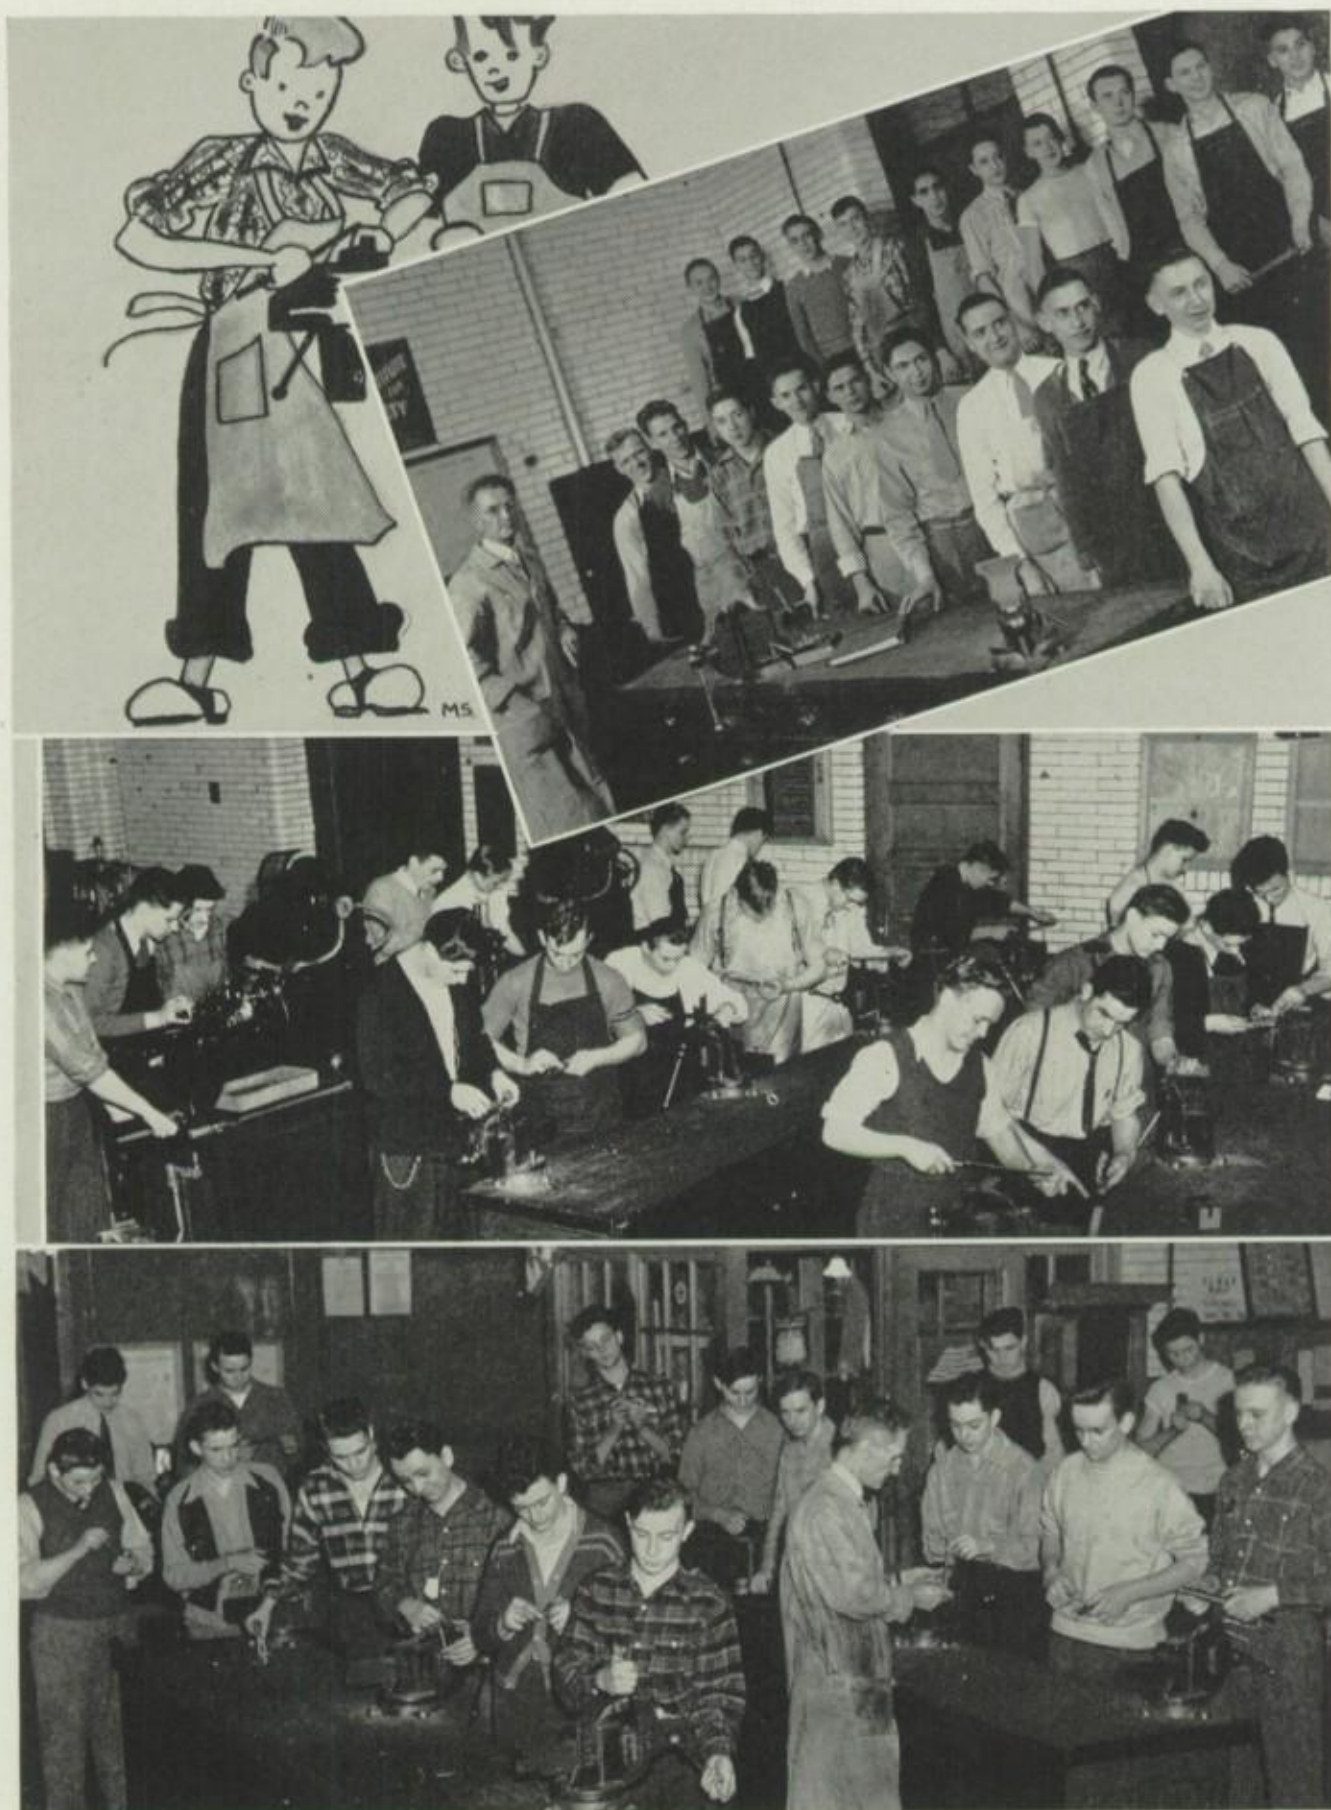

Upon entering Machine Shop I the boys set about learning the fundamentals of the work and as they progress they make inside and outside calipers, depth gauges, hammers, and other small tools which will be useful at home and in the shop. With this experience behind them the boys go into Machine Shop II where they start out with tapering exercises and after a little practice in getting themselves accustomed to operating their lathes, they begin to make tools similar to those made in the machine shops of industry.

The Pattern Shop, under the direction of Mr. Sutherland, has made and continues to make patterns of tools which are molded in the Foundry and then sent to the Machine Shop to replace worn parts on the machines. One of the newest patterns that they are working on in the Pattern Shop is a hinge which enables a drill press to be converted into a lathe by changing it to a horizontal position. It is harmony and cooperation like this that makes us feel proud of our shop here at Schurz.

Young Machinists Train for the Future

Our boys, under the direction of Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Clutterbuck, are taught the use of radial and high-speed drill presses, the operation of lathes, planers, shapers, and milling machines. The objective of the machine shop is to give the boys exactly the same training they would receive if they were apprenticed machinists. The work itself is very practical and includes machine shop theory as well as a definite study of blue prints and printed directions. If a boy cannot read and translate his directions into practical work, he has failed in machine shop practice. The boys, therefore, are not only being trained for machine shop but also for the army service, which recently said that boys must be able to do correctly what they read.

Ram the Molds, Boys!

"Hmmm, now that mold looks as though it is rammed up just right." To anyone who has taken Foundry, these are familiar words. No matter what job we were doing, Mr. Mitchell was always there to help us. The type of work done in the foundry is called "Green Sand Bench Molding." In the first few weeks, pupils learn how to ram up a mold. This means that they have learned how to pack up sand around any type of pattern so that molds can be made from them. Then they are allowed to "pour"; that is, melt metal in a furnace and pour it into a waiting mold. Many of the boys have made bookends, sundials, Lincoln and Washington heads and many useful things. All enjoy the work and have felt that every minute spent in Foundry was time well spent.

Gaining the Elementary Skills of Shop

In woodshop 2 the boys begin the use of the lathes in connection with their cabinet making. Those who are especially skilled in woodworking are allowed to go on to more advanced work. Much emphasis is placed on the safety rules of the shop, not only for the boys' protection and safety while they are in Schurz, but also for their protection when they enter the actual workshop field. If their habits have become automatic during training and apprenticeship periods many accidents are avoided in adult life.

In the Electric Shop

Atoms, electrons, and protons too; motors, generators, and all things new. All these are investigated by the boys who take electric shop. In the first half of the semester, the boys take up the practical side of electricity, such as making motors and door chimes; later the theory of electricity and its application to the industrial world is studied.

The Maintenance Department Wins Awards

Only on cold wintry mornings are we aware of the vast furnaces and complex machinery housed on the ground floor of the triangle. Yet this same machinery is vital to the efficient operation of Schurz. Under the supervision of the chief engineer, Mr. N. Lies, this small "plant" circulates heat and water throughout the school. Here may be found the great electric switchboard, the central control of Schurz's lighting system. Here, too, are the chlorinator, used to purify the water in the swimming pool, and the various ventilators and motors which are so necessary to the maintenance of a large school.

But while the actual machinery at school is seldom considered, the beauty of the campus is always before us. For that, also, we are indebted, for their tireless work, to our engineer and his corps. Without their aid, Schurz would never have deserved the plaque awarded for the best lawn in Chicago.

A decorative border of black and olive green ink scrolls and stylized flowers frames the title. The scrolls are thick and fluid, with small, delicate flowers and leaves interspersed along their paths.

Excitement Marks the Day: Notables Elected

Superlatives are in order in the Senior class, for the class notables are being elected. Campaign speeches and advertising mark the days; for Seniors are important. Friendly rivalry is keen, and jokes, "wise cracking," and friendly banter, about Most Artistic, Most Musical, Most Popular, Best Dancer, Best Scholar, Most Athletic, Most Courteous, Most Attractive, Most Versatile, Friendliest, Wittiest, and Most Dignified, fill all idle moments. Tenseness marks the afternoon when tellers "count the Ballots"; and no big national election is marked with greater secrecy or suspense than Notables.

CLASS NOTABLES, FEBRUARY, 1944

Most Popular—Audrey Dobrick and George Taseff
Most Literary—Betty Geannopoulos and Serge Logan
Best Student—LaVerne Jorgensen and Edward Michelic
Best Dancer—Ida Williams and Jerry Murray
Typical Schurzite—Bonnie Zimmerman and Ronald Ernst
Most Courteous—Shirley Hill and Ray Richardson
Most Dependable—Jeanette Timmcke and Arthur Miller

Most Musical—Renee Roth and Maclyn Peat
Most Likely to Succeed—Shirley Tess and Ralph Arvidson
Most Athletic—Margaret Hildebrand and Al Boy
Most Artistic—Elaine Hamann and Richard Tanney
Friendliest—Maudie Munson and George Oprea
Most Attractive—Lois Johnson and Richard Schroeder
Most Versatile—Rae Borgersen and Ralph Dowling

Lovely Music, Soft Lights, Billowy Dresses

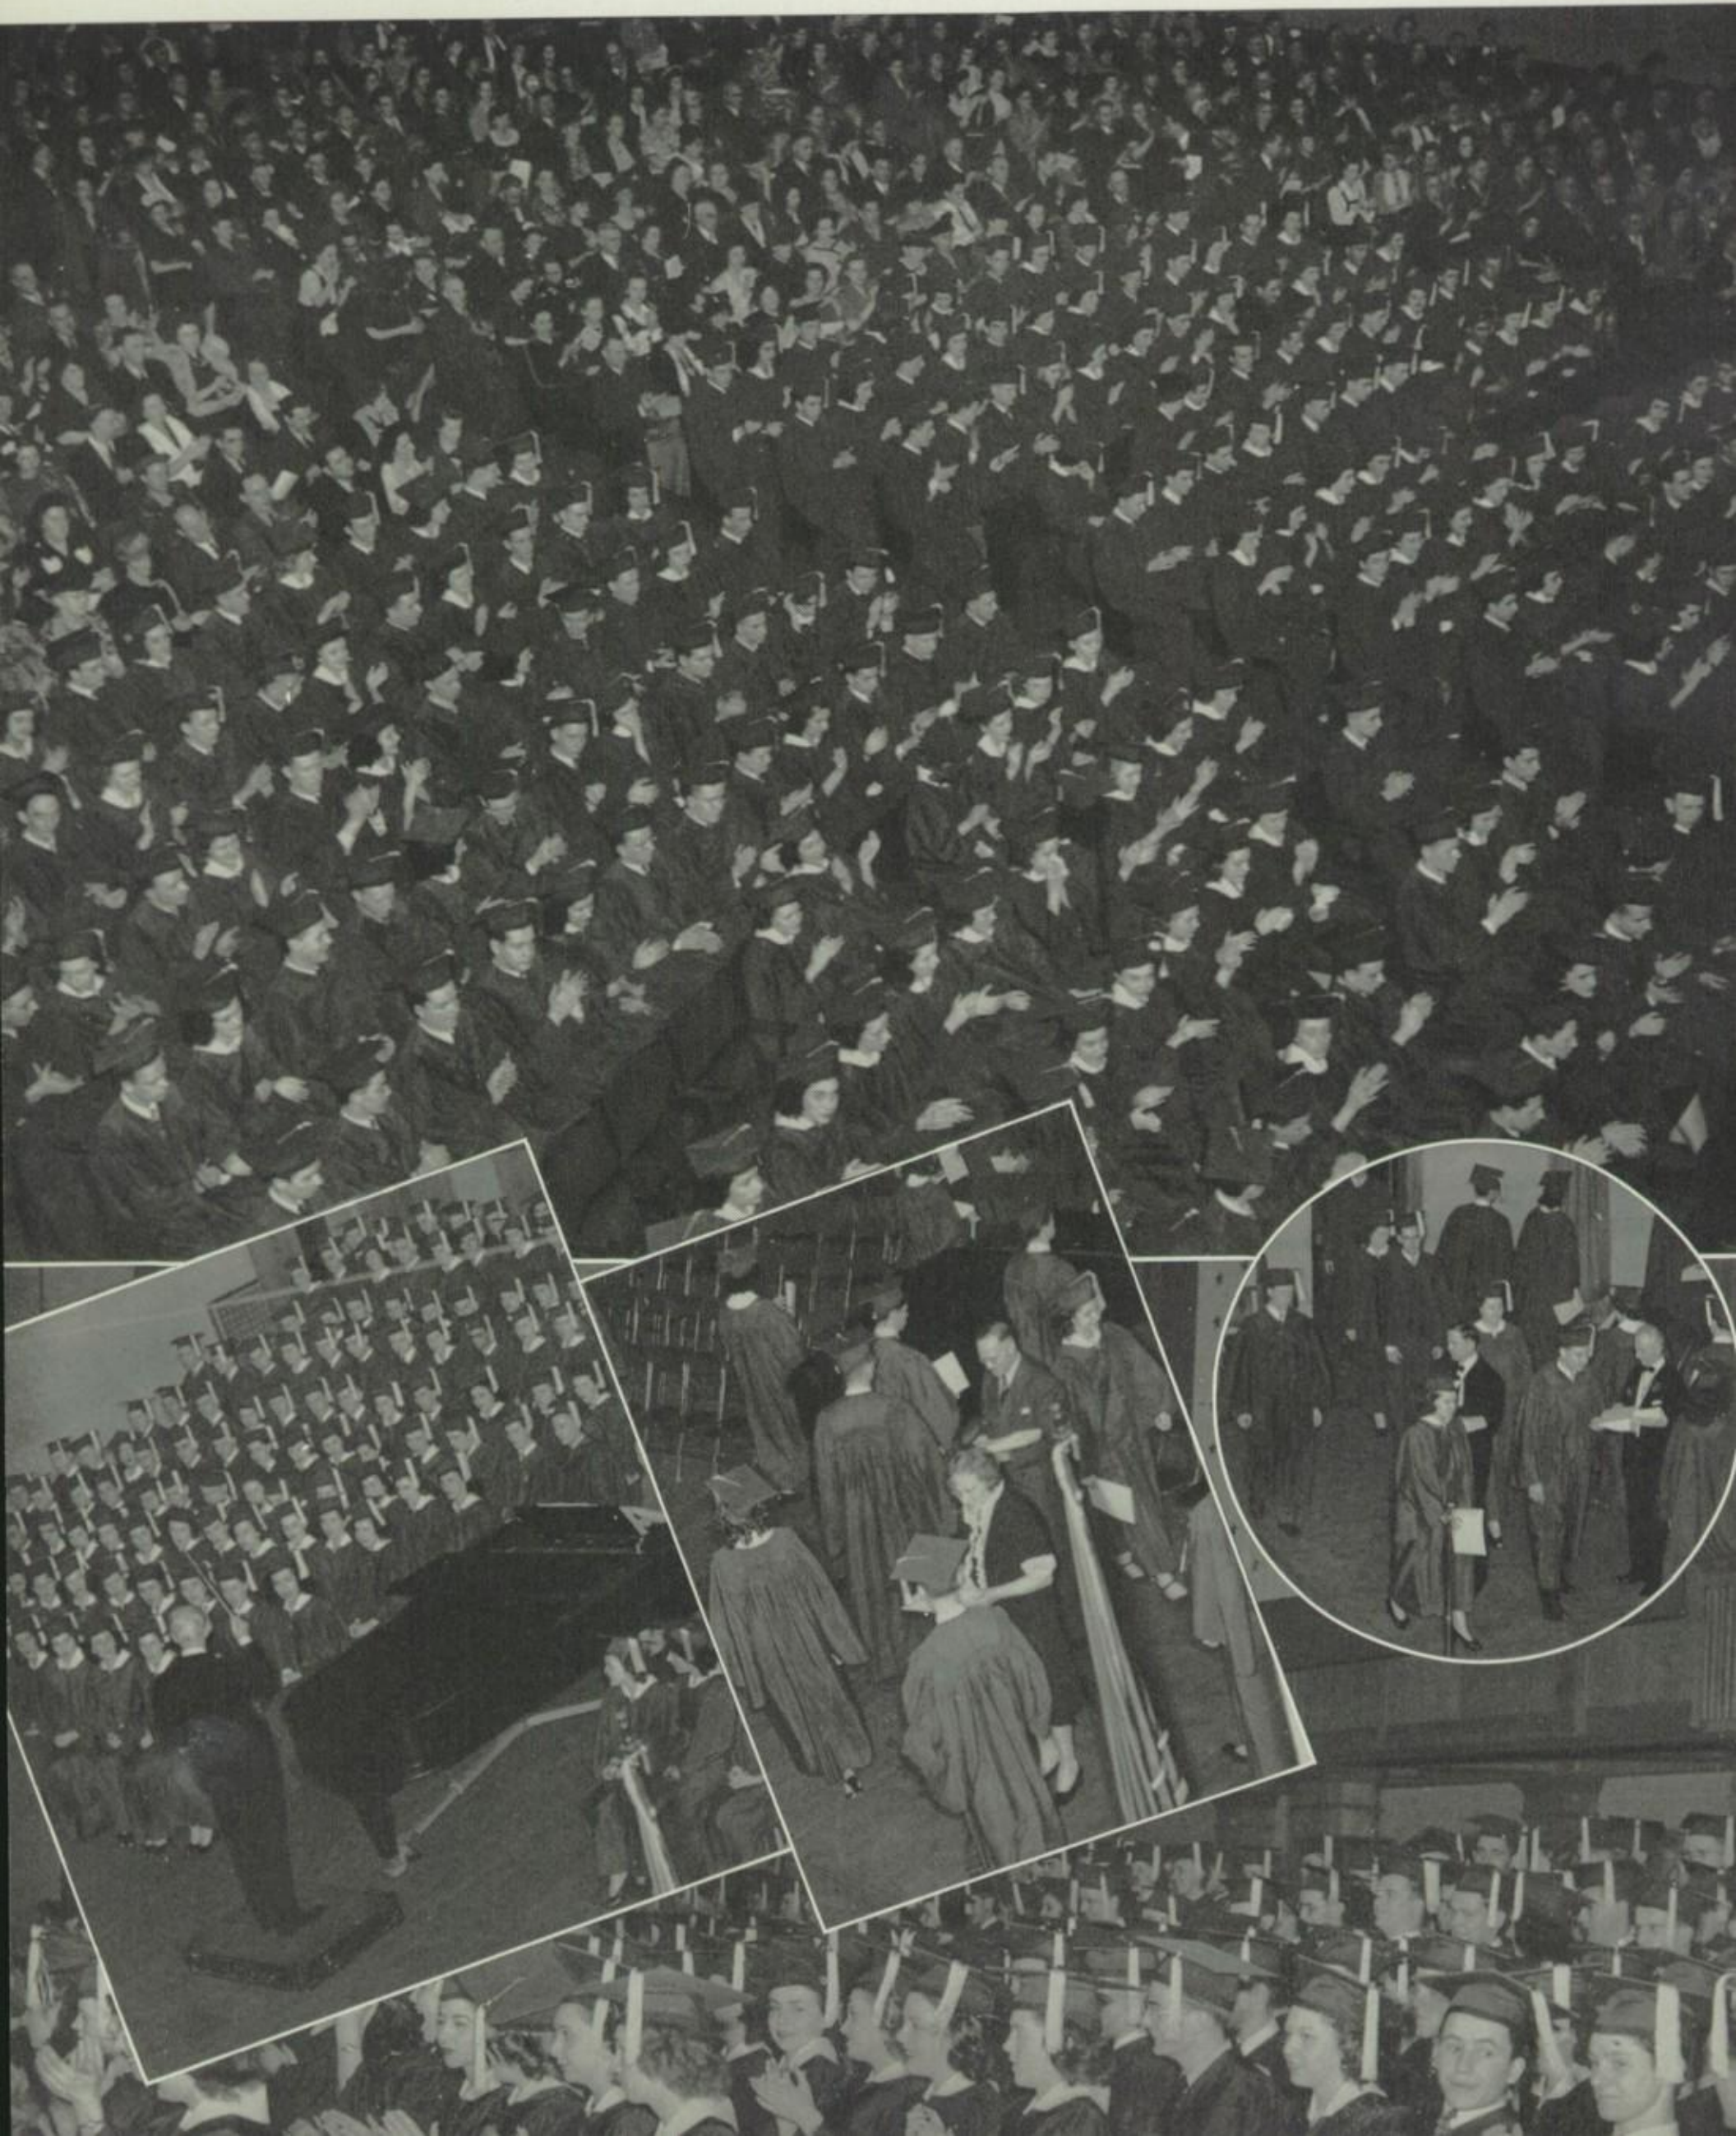

Lovely music, soft lights, billowy dresses—treasured memories of the Senior Prom. The final joyous evening of high school life, the Prom was a long-awaited and memorable occasion. The night of January twenty-first found the Michiana Shore Country Club echoing to the strains of one of our best orchestras and filled with laughing, dancing Seniors. The hours fled; but the memory of an evening of charm and beauty will live with the Seniors of January, 1944.

Lower left—Maclyn Peat, Marion McGuire
Upper right—Dick Tade, Britta Borgerson
Center right—Charlene Handy

Solemn Memories of Graduation Night

The Leaders of the Senior Family Group

Mr. Kenneth McAfee, class adviser; Michael Dulko, president; Rose Marie Wener, vice-president; Gay Trager, secretary; Bernard Kucharski, treasurer.

Through the whirl of senior elections, committees, and class activities, Mr. McAfee has been on hand to aid and guide the class of June, 1944.

As coordinator of the 4A divisions, Mr. McAfee was a well-known figure in the assembly hall. His appearance on the stage, during division, was the signal for quiet. Conversation ceased, announcements and class business took the floor, until his familiar "Class dismissed" sounded.

Director of senior activities, responsible for setting the various committees in motion, Mr. McAfee ably filled a difficult position. He will be remembered by every senior, identified in the years to come with the bustle and excitement of senior division.

June Notables

Reading, left to right, starting top row—MOST STUDIOUS: C. McDonald, E. Anderson. MOST ATTRACTIVE: M. Grum, R. Bedess. MOST ARTISTIC: L. Zilke, B. Hitzel. BEST DANCERS: P. Doyle, N. Blankenship. MOST COURTEOUS: M. Kleeman, L. Bretman. MOST DEPENDABLE: E. Jarosh, L. Karotta. MOST ATHLETIC: M. Neilsen, L. Wahl. MOST

VERSATILE: L. Stegerwaldt, G. Godfrey. MOST MUSICAL: S. Mason, R. Lagerquist. MOST POPULAR: A. Gusto, B. Engh. MOST FRIENDLY: A. Schell, H. Shambough. MOST DIGNIFIED: K. Thalman, E. Simon. MOST TYPICAL SCHURZITE: J. Gerrehity, J. Waytime. MOST WITTY: B. Baker, W. Farrell.

Tenseness and excitement in the air, ardent campaigners, posters everywhere—senior elections are the talk of the day!

Best student! "Vote for Mary"—Most Artistic—"I'm running for . . ." There's no other event quite so important; there never was an election so entirely absorbing. Heated campaigns, a tight-fought election, the returns anxiously, hopefully awaited.

Most Athletic, Most Dignified, the votes are counted, the honors bestowed—and once more the senior class returns to a calm and normal existence.

4-A Girls Enjoy Senior Days— Days That Will Soon Be on Memory's Page

Schurz Remembers With Pride

Again Schurz is to be congratulated. Edward L. Anderson and Edward Wood of Miss Wincher's Civics class have been awarded the Charles Palmer Davis Medals for proficiency in the study of Current Events. Last year, John Glasgow, Robert Shapiro, and Franz Schulz won these medals against the competition of three and one-half million high school students from all over the United States and are now attending college on the scholarship recommendation won by them at that time. Although nineteen medals are awarded each year by the American Education Press, this year's ruling entitled our district to only two medals, and again Schurz has won them. Edward Anderson and Edward Wood also entered the contest for All High School America's Town Meeting, sponsored by "Our Times." Edward Anderson was the successful candidate to represent Schurz in Columbus on May fourth in the National Junior Town Meeting. Edward Wood was awarded a certificate of Honorable Mention in the Westinghouse Science Contest, also a national honor. Both of these boys expect to attend the University of Chicago next year, as the holders of these awards are given scholarship recommendations by the respective agencies giving these tests.

4-A Boys Gather for Last Days of Friendship

That last semester of high school life passes all too quickly. In the rush of activities, classmates often remain comparative strangers. The 4A Girls' Club was organized, therefore, to promote friendship, cooperation, and good times among the senior girls. Under the sponsorship of Miss Everist and Miss Keenan, the club has successfully combined social events with school service. The joint meeting with the 4A Boys' Club was entertained by the talented members of both groups. The joint dance, held later in the semester, was highly successful. Service, however, plays an important role in the program of any club. This semester, the 4A Girls sold tickets to the P.T.A. sponsored book review by Dr. Preston Bradley. One of the semester highlights was the Mothers and Daughters Tea, where a friendly get-together was held. President Lydia Steigerwaldt presided over the bi-weekly meetings, Elaine Jarosh was vice-president, Primrose Seehase took over the secretarial duties, and Doris Lome was entrusted with the funds. The efficient sergeants-at-arms were Virginia Zygowicz and Ann Schell. The 4A Girls can look back upon a semester of fun and friendship and a happy page in their book of memory.

The seniors are proud of those members of their class who answered the call to service, and, while regretting that they did not complete their high school training, honor them for their high purpose.

Sponsored by Mr. Miller, the 4A Boys' Club was organized at the beginning of the semester to give the boys a chance to get together more often before graduating most of its members into the armed forces. The officers elected by the group were Lennie Wahl, president; Bob Engh, secretary; Gene Kaiden, treasurer; Art Keller and Clyde Redman, sergeants-at-arms. The 4A Boys' Club is one of the largest student organizations in the school, boasting of a membership of over eighty graduation hopefuls. Its major aims are a good time as 4A's and more social activities while still in school. Many of these aims have been realized and perhaps the remembrance of these moments will give respite later in the foxholes of the battlefields.

The Youngest in Our Family, the Freshmen

*Freshies, Freshies, say that you like us, do.
 We're all a-quiver with many plans for you.
 In clubs and sports and classes,
 For eager lads and lasses,
 We'll tease you some; it's all in fun,
 Like this bicycle built for two.*

Studying Diligently to Keep Them Ahead

Probably Mom and Dad see Joe Junior only as a streak flashing out of the house bound for Hi-Y, his girl's house, or the big game. Very self-important and the world's busiest with studies and a bustling social life, juniors sometimes become a curiosity at home, but at school—now look around you at the next baseball, football, soccer, or basketball game. Who is yelling the loudest? Why, a junior, of course. How else could the inability to speak above a whisper the next day be accounted for? Who are out selling tickets—trying for cub reporter jobs—joining Tri Hi-Y—pepping up the G.A.A.? Why, juniors, of course. Just before they're seniors, they're as busy as can be. Let's give a cheer for our juniors!

BAG OF TRICKS

1. SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS where our count of sunny hours defied the clock's precision.
2. SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS
where our magicians became trouble chasers converting gloom to sunshine.
3. MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS
where several times a year all of Schurz large family, past and present, united in the joyous harmony of song.

Our Active Alpha Tri-Hi-Y in Merry Mood

Alpha's Victorian Tea was a huge success! The entertainers wore costumes found in the attics at home and the girls entered into the spirit with zest. It was such fun to see hats and dresses which had belonged to Grandmama.

Although our Schurz Alpha Tri Hi-Y inducts new officers every semester, the club's high purpose and slogan remain unchanged. During the fall semester the club needed different chairmen for affairs, such as informal Date Night, a program chairman for regular meetings, and someone whose task it would be to keep Alpha's Efficiency Book. Having elected these officers, it followed a successful program of activity. The members worked hard on their hemmed handkerchiefs, completing one thousand, and sending them to the boys in the Armed Forces. They also pledged to contribute money to the Y.M.C.A., where all regular meetings are held.

Busy hands, many plans for service and fun! These words typify our Alpha Tri Hi-Y which is always ready to serve in socials or service projects. The first affair last spring that the new members attended was a charming tea held in the social room. After this event came their long-awaited Formal Induction. Later Alpha gave a gay little Easter party for the Lydia Children's Home. They helped the Easter bunny make the season festive with brightly decorated eggs and candies. At regular meetings the girls worked on hospital shirts for servicemen confined to hospital beds. These ordinary men's shirts, minus the stiff collars and cuffs, were contributed to different hospitals and no doubt brought comfort to these patients. Alpha's joint meetings with Senn Tri Hi-Y and Hi-Y, Beta, and our own Schurz Hi-Y were delightful meetings on the spring calendar.

Service, Work, and Play in Beta Tri-Hi-Y

BUSY young ladies, but picture pretty! These 3A girls are conscious of other things in school besides studying in books. Service clubs and social activities become important, and one of the best organizations to enter is Beta Tri Hi-Y. Beta followed a set schedule of service projects and social dates during the year very successfully. Every member took part in these activities. They slaved over their slipper bags for the Lydia Children's Home, gathered together clothes and toys for Benton House, and finished a social project for our superb Social Room. However, there were plenty of good times at joint meetings with Alpha and Hi-Y, the Backward Bounce, and Date Night.

Beta's formal induction and talent night rolled around in March and was an exciting and solemn affair to each inductee. On this evening, each girl officially became a regular member with privileges of holding office, attending club affairs, and acting on committees. Between joint meetings and socials, Beta had Friends' Night. Every member brought a friend and also all the old jewelry she possibly could. This jewelry was shipped to our boys overseas to trade with the natives. Service projects were making clothes for the tots in orphan homes, and remaking hospital shirts for our boys in hospitals.

Problems! Problems! Who Has the Answer?

The students in Pacific Relations Club have an interest in the fascinating lands in the Pacific. They are chosen by their history teachers and are their guests at lectures and conferences. The pupils study and read about topics dealing with economic, political, social, and geographical conditions of China, India, Japan, and the British and French possessions in order to participate in city-wide panel discussions. The Schurz Pacific Relations Club is affiliated with the larger city group which regularly holds student conferences, sponsored by the Chicago Committee, American Council, Institute of Pacific Relations.

Always on the job, our stage crew makes sure that every one of our assemblies and programs is a success. Seven years ago our stage crew was organized and since that time the knowledge gained by each crew has been passed on to each successive group, together with the traditions of those who work back-stage. From first curtain to last curtain, Richard Mech with his crew strives for a "smooth" performance.

These Good Neighbors Make Good Friends

With a friendly "Buenas Dias," we were warmly greeted by the officers of the Pan-American League, who were more than eager to tell us about the club's activities. During the year the League has presented a Columbus Day program, prepared the Spanish Reading Contests, and had one of the gayest and most colorful exhibits at Open House. The club, under Dr. Juliano's sponsorship, has tried to promote a friendlier feeling toward the Americas and a better understanding of the Pan-American Union here in the United States. Each Spanish class is organized to represent a Pan-American country and sends three officers to the Council of the Pan-American League. A Code of Ethics, consisting of eleven points, was developed in the interests of Pan-American unity.

Our Tribute to Mr. Willard

Above—Mr. Willard.

The Engineering Club bids its devoted sponsor a warm farewell upon his retirement from Carl Schurz. Mr. Willard has had the respect and admiration of every member of the club. He has guided us, as he has guided many others in the past forty-six years, toward high ideals, clear thinking, and industry. What we say here can never hope to approach what we feel deep down in our hearts. So, in saying good-bye to this fine leader of boys, the least we can do is to proclaim him Sponsor Emeritus of the Engineering Club of Carl Schurz High School. Good luck, Mr. Willard. Your influence will always be a strong factor in our lives, and we in turn will try to impart those fine principles for which you stand to those who shall come after us.

Robert Fawcett, President.

The Founder of Carl Schurz Engineering Club

As one grows older, the sands of Time seem to trickle faster through the hour glass. Soon another will be called upon to take over in 422. Thirty-four years at the same desk, seventeen of which were given to extra-curricular activities at Schurz, have been filled with opportunities, pleasures, and problems of our young people. In October, 1930, a new technique, or approach, to some of these problems was sought through the organization of C.S.E.C. by a group of forty boys that went "all out" for action, following a twelve point program. The log books record its achievements from the beginning and transmit a definite course of procedure for those who take over the controls.

William F. Willard

P. S.: Robert Fawcett received a 4-year honorary scholarship to Illinois Technical School in Fire Protection Engineering.

With the help of Mr. K. Stevenson, their sponsor, the boys in the Senior Hi-Y got off to a rip-roaring start by taking part in school drives, presenting socials, and in general being helpful to the war effort. Last semester, the officers were Norman Blankenship, president; Bob Lagerquist, vice president; Bruce Herdrick, secretary; Don Cable, treasurer; and Bob Stout, sergeant-at-arms. Every semester, Hi-Y "Date Night," a closed dance, is held for the members. In the spring, the boys have a hayride party. At the meetings, the boys have movies and lectures throughout the year which deal with various educational subjects. Last semester the club collected money from the members and sent presents to the men in the service. At the end of every semester a dinner is held, but in the spring the boys usually hold a picnic. Every meeting is opened with a prayer which the chaplain leads. Schurz is proud of the Hi-Y and hopes that they keep up the good work they have been doing.

Building Leaders Is the Aim of Schurz Hi-Y

"Wiggle, wiggle, I'm a worm." Ah! Familiar words, these. When new members are taken into the Senior Hi-Y, one week is set aside during which the prospective members wear the traditional red ribbons and collect pennies. Throughout that week, the boys' characters are determined and the regular members find out if the "worms" are good sports. The pennies that the boys have collected are put into the club treasury to maintain the club's expenses. That traditional red ribbon you see the boys wearing signifies that they are worms. The purpose of the Senior Hi-Y is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. The club meets every other Monday due to the crowded facilities at the Y.M.C.A., but they do try to have activities on nights that no regular meetings are scheduled to stimulate a more active interest in the club. Only Juniors and Seniors are allowed to join. Most important of all, the Senior Hi-Y has as one of its aims the securing of potential leaders for its members.

A bustling year filled with numerous activities made the Polish Club popular with those who wished to keep in close touch with Polish culture and to become acquainted with the many famous Polish men and women. A visit was made to a Polish Museum to see the last personal belongings of the great Paderewski and to the Art Institute to see an exhibit of old Polish woodcuts. During the fall, some club members attended the folk dance and song festival held at the Field Museum. At Christmas-time Miss Cierpik, the club's sponsor, aided the members in designing Christmas tree ornaments of egg shells on which were painted beautiful peasant designs.

These organizations keep a high bright polish on our efficiency. With a serious manpower shortage the Clean-up committee, under the direction of Mrs. Joyce, is striving to keep our school spick and span. Every division is working for a Minute Man percentage with Mrs. Van Valzah, assisted by Miss Holtz, Miss Minnis, Miss Keenan and the stamp delegates trying to speed the divisions over the top in stamp and bond sales. Social Study classes will obtain the right map from helpful map room clerks, who are under the supervision of Miss Wincher. If you lose a book, dash down to Room 113. Here Miss Conerty and her staff will pause in their task of assigning books to classes to help locate yours.

"Knights of the News" Fight Valiantly for Truth

The knights of old were never more on the alert than the Schurz Times staff. With a competent staff of journalism students, and Miss Irene Theobold as adviser, the Schurz Times has received many honors. The paper has been awarded first place honors from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association for five years, and from the National Scholastic Press Association for four years. The Schurz Times has received the Quill and Scroll International First Place award for four years also. Additional war-time awards include second place in the Columbia National Aviation Contest; and the Quill and Scroll "A" for a newspaper of outstanding wartime journalism. Hats off to you, Miss Theobold!

In March, the Schurz Times went "on the air" over Station WBEZ, presenting a radio edition to an audience of F.M. listeners.

The staff of February '44 was headed by Betty Geannopolous and LaVerne Jorgenson, co-editors.

Beatrice Kanavos was feature editor, Serge Logan make-up editor, Arnold Isaak sports editor, and Ted Rademacher added a note of war as aviation editor. The spring semester found a few changes in the staff, with Beatrice Kanavos and Harriet Pillman as co-editors. Patricia Kindahl was feature editor, Dorothy Jehs make-up editor, Arnold Isaak continued as sports editor, while George Hesley succeeded to aviation editor.

Pages from the Paletteers' Family Album

With reveries of palettes, paints, and brushes, the Paletteers' Club wishes to join the Family Album of 1944. The club started with renewed energy by designing numerous posters urging the students to "Buy Bonds and Stamps," thus aiding, indirectly, the R.O.T.C. boys in picking a queen for their Military Ball. Perhaps their biggest achievement was the display of Christmas crafts which they made in Miss K. Schmidt's art class. The Paletteers put special pride in their study of commercial art, correlating printing and art, thus preparing themselves for apprenticeship in layout, drawing, photography, type, and color. The family knows you will enjoy meeting the officers of the club as they posed in their family group as "Pa, Ma, and the children." It was this group which assisted Miss K. Schmidt in the designing of this book.

Designing the Fashions of Tomorrow

Daughter designs 'em and Mother dons 'em. Anything in newest wrinkle from purses to suits is apt to flow from the creative minds and fingers of these members of the Sketch Club. In the Sketch Club's mirrors are reflected the styles of the Ming dynasty brought up to date. Searching through history's fashions, these artists, under the direction of Miss K. Schmidt, captured the spirit of colorful costumes of long ago and designed dresses for little manikins. These manikins caught the eye of Miss Templeton of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and soon were placed in the store's window to herald the opening of the Campus Shop. Jutta Callesoe's original model, which she had made from her manikin, attracted wide notice and favorable comment when it was displayed in the Campus Shop.

Two by two the animals came—yes siree, to the annual Christmas Bazaar which was held at the Art Institute of Chicago. With Noah's Ark and all the animals arrived hand-made rag dolls, hand bags, tablecloths, plaques, pictures, paper dolls, carved candles, and all kinds of clever crafts made by the Sketch Club. But they did not stay there long; wise Chicagoans were eager to get them for delightful gifts. No doubt little sister's eyes popped when the Old Mammy Doll almost as large as herself was waiting for her under the Christmas tree.

International Circle, a most timely club at Schurz under the sponsorship of Miss K. Connell, attempts to analyze facts behind the world news, analyzing propaganda while seeking the truth. The most important news event discussed last semester was the Teheran Conference. The club attempted putting itself in place of the conferees, looking at the situation from all sides. The club's president, John Smith, appeared on radio programs which emphasized the importance of mathematics to our men, and the brilliant work American troops are doing in all theaters of war. The Schurz International Circle's purpose can be summed up in its slogan—"A Club For Pupils Who Think."

In keeping with the patriotic spirit of 1944, the French Club has stressed activities to aid the war effort—drives for the sale of War Bonds and Stamps, for the contribution of cakes for the Service Men's Center, and for the making of scrap books for the Red Cross. Another club project was the knitting of squares by many individual members and the crocheting of these squares into a large afghan. Likewise individual were the gifts which were wrapped in Christmas trimmings and sent to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

Treasured recognition of the club's efforts came in the form of a letter of thanks from the Shriners' Hospital and another, personally signed, from the first lady of the city, Mrs. Edward J. Kelly.

Laurels Uphold American Family Traditions of Scholarship and Service

Five hundred twenty Mothers sang more gaily at their work; five hundred twenty Fathers strutted more proudly; for five hundred twenty pupils at Schurz won their fourteen scholastic points which admitted them to the Laurels, Schurz branch of "The National Honor Society." There are two supreme moments in the life of Schurz honor students, the receiving of a red rose during the beginning freshman semester and the awarding of a gold honor pin at graduation, the climax of eight semesters of membership. Miss Claussen, Miss Hartwell, Mrs. Joyce, and Miss Madden are the sponsors of this large group. The Executive Board planned with them the social and service activities of the year; these included war activities, book drives, stamp sales, assemblies, and a dance each semester.

The Best Book and the Best City

Miracle Book Club's chief aim and endeavor is to promote Christian ideals and living and to furnish a meeting place where young people can gather, both for fellowship and for pleasant social times together.

East, west, home is best, especially if that home is in Chicago. Tours Club members are busy finding that out. They have discovered that Chicago is a city of innumerable wonders. The club, sponsored by Miss Schaefer and Miss Stauder, and directed by President Jean Halvorsen, Secretary Gloria Fischer, and Program Chairman Richard Czeslowski, aims to keep students informed of Chicago's greatness through many interesting trips. Four important tours a semester help to make this a popular club. These trips have included a visit to a Television Studio, the Field Museum, Little Mexico with a Mexican dinner, Hull House, the Board of Trade, and the Indiana Sand Dunes.

Hold your hats, Schurzites! We've won that Red Cross Award again, and here's how we did it. Under the dynamic direction of the chairman, Miss Halushka, and Miss C. Schmitt as assistant, our Red Cross Unit here at Schurz has collected games, playing cards, scrapbooks, dictionaries, puzzles, and many other articles requested by the Red Cross. But that's not all; we did not stop there. Classes and clubs joined in the work. The commercial students knitted square afghans for infants, while the Domestic Science classes made comfort garments for soldiers and the Art department made menu covers, posters, dolls of wool yarn, and designed Christmas wrappings.

There has been a rumor, just a rumor, that the members of certain swimming classes were fined one cent for every minute they were late. If this were true, it was all in a good cause; the money was given to the Red Cross. From many different sources, seventy-five dollars was collected for the purchase of seventy-five Christmas boxes for refugees in all parts of North and South America. Yes, we're pretty proud of our Unit here at Schurz.

The World of Science Revealing Its Wonders

The Young Scientist Club is a student group engaged in extra-curricular experiment and research in science. To see these boys, serious, studious, fearless, in action is to wish to join them in their delvings. The enthusiasm of Mr. Taylor, the sponsor of these future great men of the world, is an added inspiration for their eager minds. With a member chairman for each division of science, all branches are explored for their innermost secrets.

In olden days a smell of sulphur at the hearth meant the presence of the Evil One; but today it probably means only that Junior is experimenting for the Experimenter Club. The club, whose sponsor is Miss Schaefer, publishes a magazine, "The Experimenter," which contains experiments, original articles, and digests of topics, such as, aviation, plastics, and meteorology.

The word, "checkmate," pierces the silence and a low groan follows in its wake—the Schurz Chess and Checker Club is in action. The "witty" humor of Happy Harry Markowitz, president, and the quips and sallies of the members seem to sharpen their skill. Army strategy is overshadowed by the maneuvers on the board of the Chess and Checker Club.

Through this body, service points for a school letter are awarded. With the help of Miss Keenan, sponsor, and Miss Pearce, assistant, Clarence Pfeiffer, the Council president, has spurred the clubs to greater war effort.

Even if you are green to the saddle and only do the bicycle exercise in your home, there is no reason to pass up an opportunity to join the Saddle and Cycle Club. The girls, for no men are allowed in this keen club, keep in condition through their Saturday morning rides which begin about eight-thirty. If the weather is bad, the members enjoy racing around the indoor arena almost as well. Miss Marnell, the club's new sponsor, accompanies the girls on their trips.

Schurz Office Assistants' Club

If you ever happen to wonder why there are so many girls dashing in and out of the office between periods, don't let it worry you. We found out that these girls bear the title of office assistants. Every period a new group arrives to take over their duties, some of which are giving out supplies, putting mail in teachers' boxes, filing office records, and answering phones. These girls are willing to give up their free time to help in running the school's bustling office and are under the supervision of Miss Blade. Working in the main office for just a short while gives each girl valuable experience which may be of help to her in a larger office a few years from now.

"We believe in freedom of Speech, Press and Religion; we believe that honesty, frugality, and tolerance will make ours a model and blessed nation; that the destructive sacrifices of War can be avoided by the constructive sacrifices of Peace," is the motto of the Americanism Club.

The Americanism Club

Today, as America battles for existence, it becomes ever more important for us to know and understand Americanism—the democratic way of life. The Americanism Club at Schurz, in planning its program for the past year, has been mindful of this need. Several speakers have been invited, among them Miss Ethel Apenfels, an anthropologist from the University of Chicago. Her subject, Brotherhood or Chaos, was developed from the standpoint of science, or anthropology, in an interesting fashion. A number of movies, patriotic in theme, were received from Washington, and presented to the club. But probably the most important of their projects were the Armistice and Memorial Day assemblies. Always inspiring programs, the reading of the Schurz gold stars, this year, gave new solemnity. Under the leadership of their officers, and with the aid of their sponsors, Mr. Vernon and Miss Davidson, the club had several lively debates with the Engineering Club. The Americanism Club program has this year been patriotic in theme and in project. It has participated in the various war drives held at Schurz, and altogether it has been a pleasant and profitable year for all.

Buy Bonds! Buy More Bonds! The race was keen; the contest close, but Robert Hirsch of Miss G. Hill's sophomore division came out on top with the highest bond sales. Following closely were Mrs. Albrecht's freshman division with Miss Loucks as teacher; next Miss McClintock's junior division, and last but not least, Miss A. Schmidt's seniors. Miss Scherbarth bought the highest amount of bonds among the faculty members. As each group entered the SCHURZONE bond race, they haunted their friends and relatives unmercifully and became constant patriotic nuisances until the lofty total was reached. When the contest was over, the winners sat for their pictures for this page of the SCHURZONE. Hurrah for Uncle Sam and the war effort!

Friends and Schurz Family Produce Our Schurzone

Mr. Roy Solem, our photographer, of the Marshall Studios, caught scenes in the homes of the parents of our students and here he got caught himself in the kitchen with Miss Clara Schmitt, who is not really serving breakfast, but preparing the scene for one of our Family shots. Orchids to you both, Miss C. Schmitt and Mr. Solem, for your excellent cooperation.

Always ready to give a helping hand Miss Elinor Goelz started the committees on the 1944 SCHURZONE. It was her excellent organizing ability that made possible the coordinating of all departments.

Two by two they go marching through, marching through to the printers—Miss K. Schmidt, Adviser, and Mr. Leander Hagerty, Jr., Director of the School Division, Superior Engraving Company, are on their way to check copy.

It was due to Mr. Hagerty's enthusiastic interest and that of the president of the Superior Engraving Company, Mr. E. J. Comforti, who is an alumnus of Carl Schurz High School, that we were guided through to a successful completion of our book.

Names, Names, and more Names! These typists checked and double checked, searched files and interviewed faculty that our thousands of names in our 1944 SCHURZONE might be correct.

Through all of this Miss Beaton calmly directed these copyists.

Not intending to overlook any member of our SCHURZONE Family we must give great credit to Miss Harriet Lee for all the literary copy used in our book.

With the Help of Peppy Salesmen

High finance was undertaken by Miss Russell and her sales classes with Mrs. Periolat and her group working as assistants. The SCHURZONE delegates for each division in the school were organized to collect the money in installments if the pupils so desired, and meetings were held for systematic checking of reports. It was a valuable service these classes rendered the SCHURZONE, for the collecting and checking of money and the advertising and sale of copies entailed many hours of work. The push of the young salesmen put the sale of three thousand copies over the top quickly. Here's to the Sales Classes for their fine energetic service.

The members of this lively Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Miss Schweitzer, participate in our annual Spring Festivals and give great promise of future musical feats. Last semester the Chorus supplied music for some of our P.T.A. meetings and delighted them with Christmas songs. Splendid training is obtained here for later use in Solo and Senior Choruses. Many pupils, who enjoy singing, substitute Mixed Chorus for Music 2; for chorus singing is stressed more than the study of the theory of music.

Singing the Sunny Hours Away

"When the lights are low; and the flickering shadows softly come and go—"
In the restful surroundings of our Social Room, the old, old songs of long ago held particular charm. For excellent songs, we turn to our Cecilian Choir, which is composed entirely of girls. The members that make up the choir are chosen by Mrs. Pierce, the director, mainly from Music 2 classes. After leaving the choir, every girl is able to take a place in any singing group in the community or continue studying music, having had some solid basic preparation while training for various musical affairs with featured soloists.

Whether it is a stirring passage from Handel's "Messiah" or some simple melody, the orchestra strives for perfection. Under the direction of Mr. James Kabrin, it plays an important part in the music festivals, at graduation, the annual presentation of the "Messiah," the City High School Orchestra Competitions, and various assemblies. The chamber orchestra performed for the P.T.A., Open House, Lions Club and teachers' gatherings.

The Schurz orchestra has solved the problem of replacing graduating members by means of a beginning, an intermediate, and an advanced intermediate orchestra. A student may start in the beginners' orchestra with no knowledge of the instrument he wishes to play; after gaining the proper technique he takes his place in the orchestra, which strives to give students the finest Martial music! Marching feet! The Military Band is on parade! Ready to give a group of draftees a rousing send-off, to serve at the awarding of a Navy "E," to play for the O.C.D., or to stand inspection with their unit, the Military Band comes to attention. At every football game, rain or shine, the R.O.T.C. band's martial music spurred the team to victory or cheered them in defeat.

The Wood Winds and Brasses in Rhythm

Strains of soft music or the rhythm of a lively march drift from 501. The Concert Band is "warming" up again. Practice is not an end in itself, however, and the band program this year has been varied. Fall Concert, Spring Concert, musical interludes for meetings of Community Clubs, solo and ensemble entries in the Annual Public School Band Competition, and assembly programs all gave band members a chance. Under Captain Harvey's supervision and direction, at profit and enjoyment for themselves and pleasure for those who heard them, the Band gives good experience for all members.

Dancing Notes and Golden Tones of Senior Chorus

Dancing notes reflect memories of our Senior Chorus. The name has somewhat of a solemn ring to it, and the members are veterans of singing. Most of them began with Solo Chorus, which was so named because each student is able to sing a solo at any time. Both choruses have built fine reputations through many semesters because of careful training under the direction of Mr. LeRoy Wetzel. These splendid groups play important parts in the Spring Festivals presented by choruses, orchestras, and bands. Every year at Christmas, Mr. Wetzel's chorus inspires the audience with his beautiful interpretation of the wondrous "Messiah."

Eyes Alert to Mr. Wetzel's Baton

The annual performance of Handel's "Messiah" has become a Schurz tradition. This inspiring religious composition is conducted under the able supervision of Mr. LeRoy Wetzel. Year after year, this presentation has come to symbolize the solemn dignity of the Yuletide season. Mr. Wetzel's efforts each year getting this masterpiece together result in greater and greater inspiration and spiritual depth of tone in its rendition. Through the "Messiah" Schurz family is held in Christmas loyalty and devotion.

One target to aim at, if you're a lucky junior, is "Junior Girls." This club, filled with a smart batch of junior chicks, holds its sprightly meetings monthly at school. Last semester a hand-picked committee made animals for a children's home. These were small-sized camels, dogs, horses and other animals made from gayly printed, plaid, or striped material stuffed with cotton. Another contribution, this time money, was given to the Red Cross and to our Social Room. The girls patriotically overcame two disappointments: their membership pins could not be obtained and their dance had to be canceled. The Junior Girls, however, worked zealously to make the club one of which they could be proud. On May 5 they sponsored a Victory Book Hop. They collected 1700 books to be sent to service men.

Keeping Our Records Straight

"Self pity puts you in a shell that closes just before opportunity passes." Such mottoes as this on the walls give silent advice while pupils work with their division teachers on their Four-year Plans which these student clerks are filing. Questions about what subjects to take and what clubs to join are easily answered during the adjustment period. More difficult problems of facing school life bravely and successfully are smoothed out by Mr. Solem, who helps our school and homes work together for our welfare.

"The streetcar broke down—I overslept—the clock was wrong—" Pick your own excuse! Sammy's late again, and teacher won't admit him. In Room 120, a busy attendance clerk is ready to supply him with the required tardy slip and Sammy can return to class. It becomes a sad, sad record after five tardinesses, however. Under the direction of Mr. Stevenson, clerks issue tardy slips and write dismissals, approved by some member of the faculty. These clerks in the picture are recording the data on a permanent file. Since February, Miss C. Schmitt has been in charge of this office.

The members of the Junior-Hi-Y strive to be a credit to their faith and to their school. At their meetings held at the Irving Park Y.M.C.A., enjoyable movies and lectures were presented. These ambitious freshmen and sophomores collected five hundred pounds of clothing for Russian Relief and participated in all the school scrap drives. A joyous hayride party and a fine dance highlighted their social activities. Their sponsors, Mr. Harvey and Mr. Garasha, guide the club's activities with sympathetic interest.

With pencils pointed toward success in the business world, the Pencil Pushers' Club, under the direction of Miss Frick and Miss Scherbarth, endeavored to keep its members informed of the newest in business equipment. Demonstrations of machines and methods in office practice were helpful and interesting. Even though most of the members were engaged in war work after school hours, they managed to be on hand when something new was offered in advanced business trends.

On the alert for the alert signal! Our Fire Marshals play an important role during practice fire and air raid drills. When the first bell clangs unexpectedly throughout our long silent corridors, each marshal has a definite post inside the building and goes to it on the double. The orderly manner and safety of all our drills are due to these efficient Fire Marshals who are under the supervision of Mr. Golub.

Sentinels of Corridor Order and Efficiency

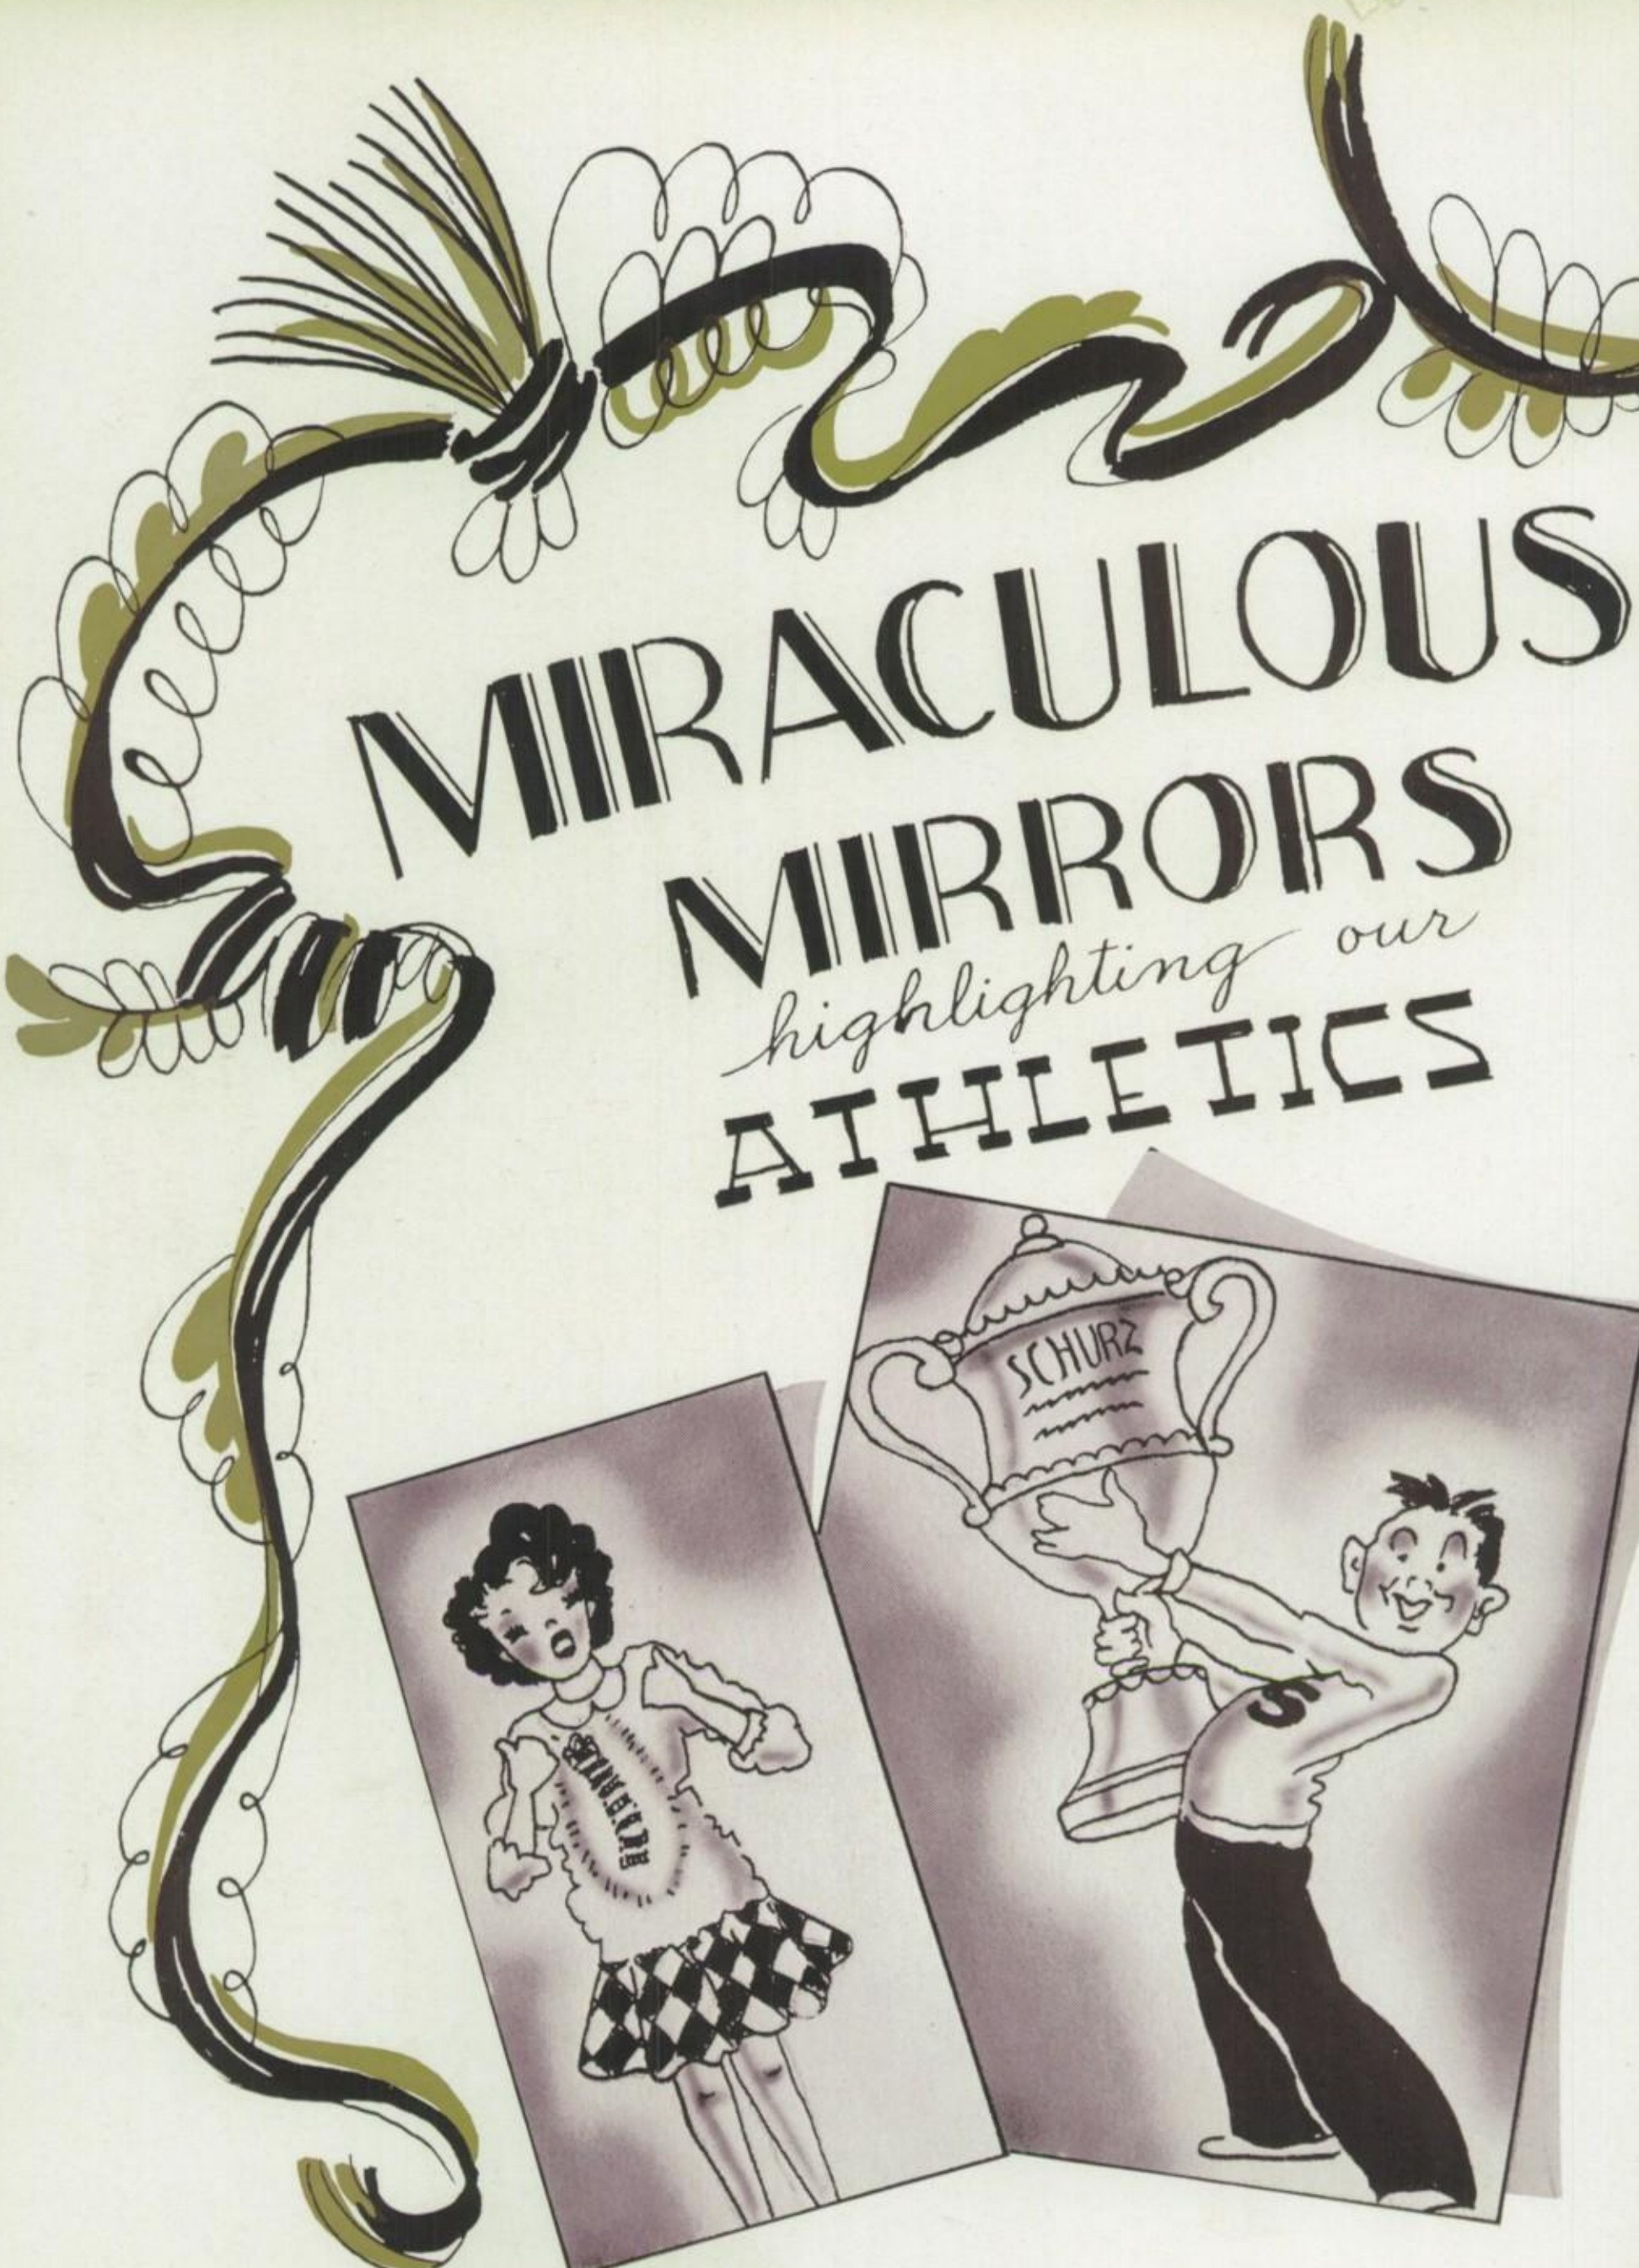

"Dependable power during the needed hour." This might well serve as the statement to use in defining our hall guards. These obliging sentinels, seen up and down the quiet corridors, are at their posts every period of every school day. Our guard system is kept running smoothly by instructions and directions given to every guard, who is requested to follow them carefully. Visitors coming to Schurz form quick impressions, so one of the duties of the guards is to see that the corridors are kept clean around their posts. Several teachers work with Mr. Myers and Mr. Redis, who are in charge of our hall guards, to help keep them on the job during all periods. At the end of each semester the worthy guards are rewarded with service points which make their effort their own personal gain.

Lunch Room—Our Favorite Class

*The lunch bell rings, and in we surge Drawn by that hungry, inward urge;
 And to our nostrils penetrate
 Aromas of many a tasty plate.
 The lunch room, with its clamoring noise,
 Ranks high among our high school joys.
 The happiest memories—though others pass—
 Will be lunch time—our favorite class!*

Winning four and losing two, the Schurz football team finished third in the North Section although crippled by injuries during most of the season. This average was compiled only during league games since the Bulldogs broke even in their exhibition games, beating Foreman and losing a night game to Proviso.

Led by Co-captains Bob Doruff and Jerry Nemec, the returning lettermen were Les Graves, Gene Gehr, Len Wahl, George Taseff, Bob Bachman, Art Keller, Clyde Redman, Eddie Rapacz, Bill Wellhausen, and Al Boy.

As Cheerleaders Cheer

Braving cold, wind, rain, and snow, the Schurz cheerleaders, under the able leadership of co-captains Donna Conybear and Bill Powell, did an exceptionally fine job of leading the Bulldog rooters at our football and basketball games. Wally Slingerland, Les Schenk, Jim Stewart, Shirley Moran, Marsha Rezewski, and Bonnie Zimmerman comprised the remainder of the squad. Since Wally Slingerland and Shirley Moran are the only returning cheerleaders, they will captain the new group next year.

Crowd Goes Wild as Schurz Upsets Waller

Sparked by returning lettermen Bob Hutchinson, Howie Katz, Art Blecke, Dick Hansen, Eddie Earle, and Captain Jerry Hutchinson, the "Bulldog" senior quintet placed fourth in the North Section title race by winning seven out of ten games, losing only three.

Midyear graduation was felt heavily since Captain Jerry Hutchinson and Dick Hansen were the leading "Bulldog" scorers when they left.

By defeating the hitherto unbeaten Waller five, Schurz scored the biggest upset of the entire season and assured itself of a play-off berth.

Others who stood out during the season were Eddie Earle, who captained the squad after graduation, Ken Christoffersen, Howie Katz, who was high point man for a single game with twenty markers, Bob Hutchinson, and Art Blecke.

In the championship play-offs, Schurz was eliminated by Wells on the latter's home court. Coach Nowak is looking forward to another winning season since there are many returning lettermen to form a strong nucleus next year.

Through the Hoop for Two More Points

With Elmer Boik, Art Ziomek, John Hildebrand, Bob Thornton, Glenn Stubenraush, and Captain Joe Waytime returning from last year's Junior Basketball team, the outlook for a winning season was good. After losing the opener to Lane, the "Bulldogs" came back to win three straight games before midyear graduation took its toll. When the new semester rolled around, Boik, Thornton, Stubenraush, and Ziomek were missing from the scene of action.

Schurz, with few individual stand-outs except Captain Joe Waytime who led the squad in scoring throughout the season, showed excellent teamwork and was able to compile a better record than its predecessor of '42-'43.

Coach Nowak is looking forward to a winning team next year with Busby, Canham, May, Steiner, Labarbra, Spannenberg, Stauch, and Cable returning from this year's squad.

Veterans Spark Soccer Squad to Winning Season

With ten returning lettermen, including Captain Tom Ormerod, Ed Butkiewicz, Dick Anderson, Bob Neri, Dick Gatti, Vahan Pedian, Frank Hornoff, Arnold Isaak, Bill Ahlborn, and Giles Godfrey, Coach Pollack's team accomplished a feat all Chicago teams have been hoping for—the defeat of Lane at the hands of the "Bulldogs." This marked the first time that the "Indians" had been beaten in four years.

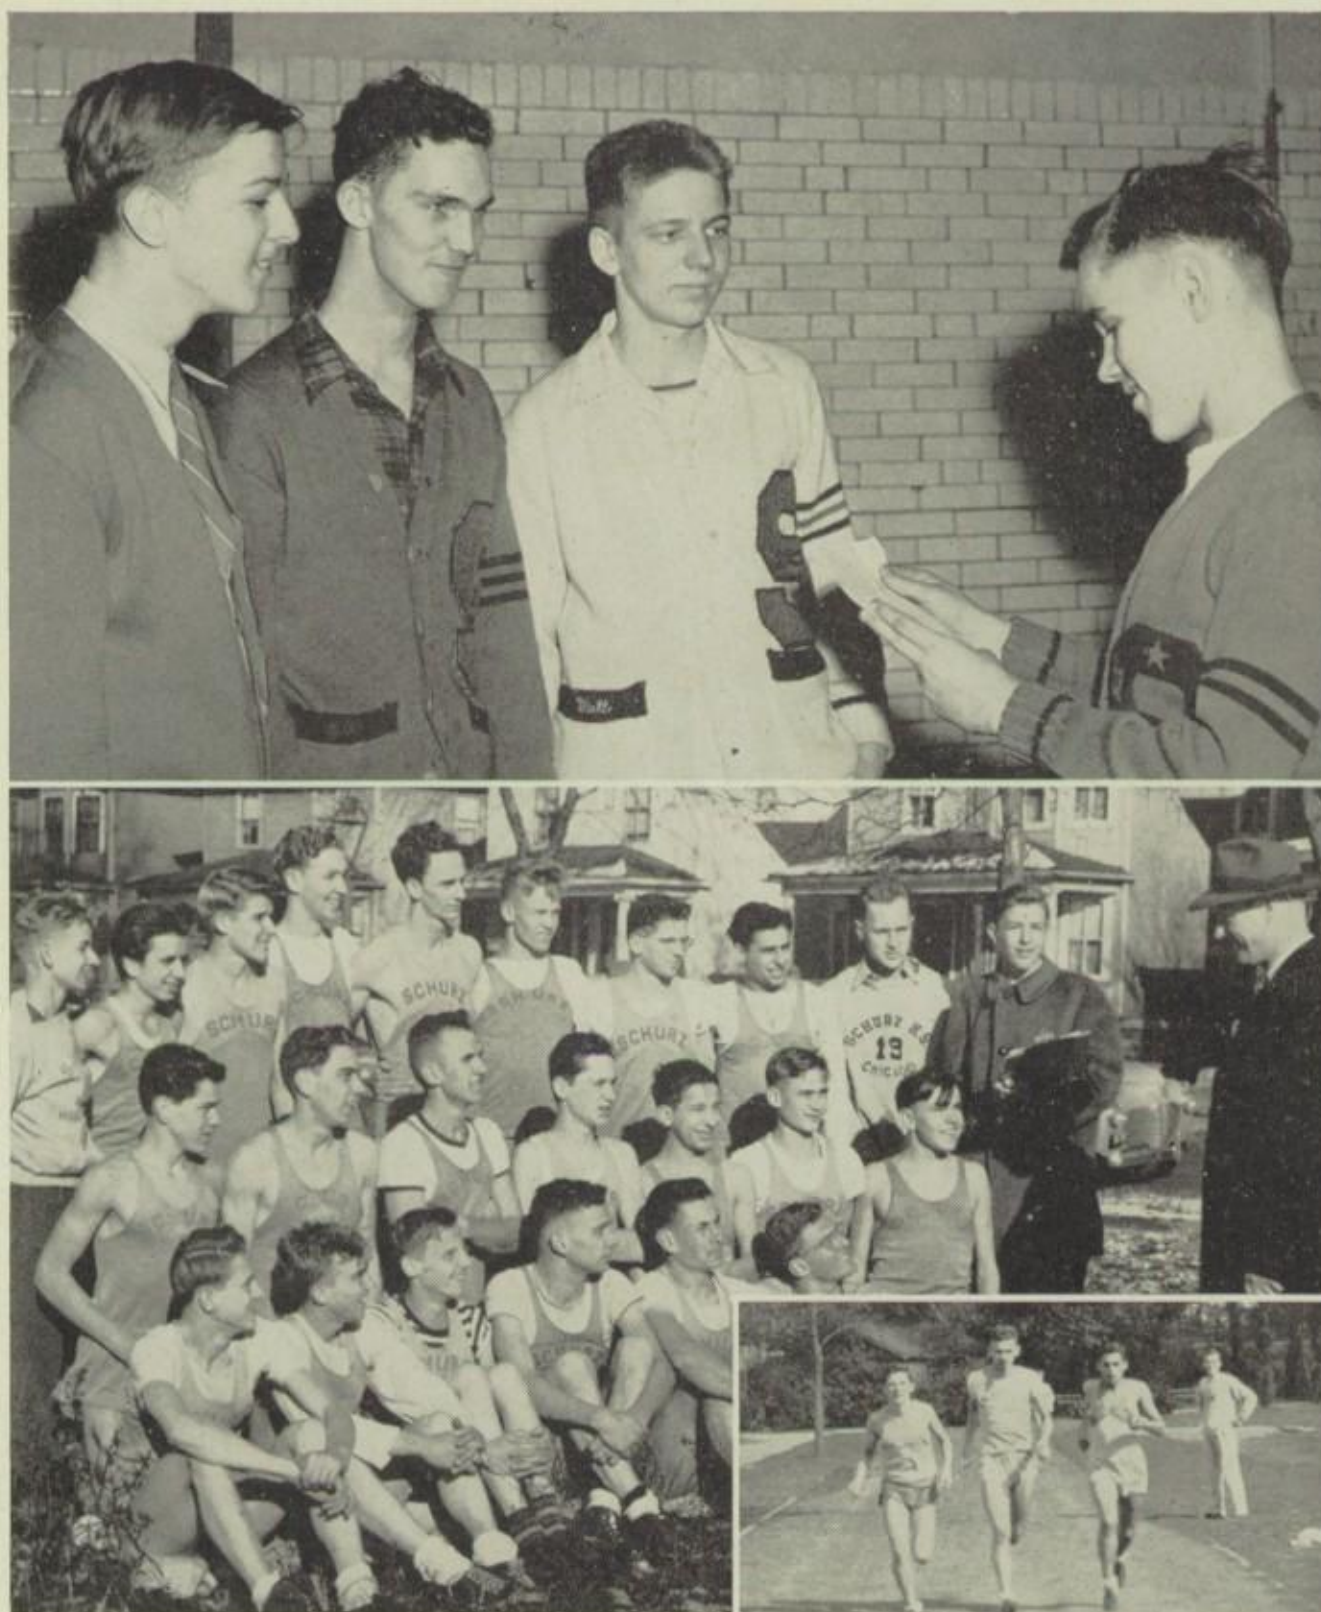

After losing the opener of the season to Lane by a score of 8 to 0, the "Bulldogs" came back fighting in the return match and gave the "Indians" a lesson in soccer by defeating the over-confident City Champions by a decisive 6 to 1 margin. Two days later the boys in the purple and gold defeated Von Steuben to whom they had previously lost a 4 to 2 decision by a similar score. They also tied Amundsen 0 to 0 twice and battled Crane Tech to two draws by scores of 0-0 and 2-2.

At the end of the season, the "Bulldogs" were undefeated in their last seven starts. Tom Ormerod and Dick Gatti were named on the All-City team, and Arnold Isaak was chosen for the All-State team, to make the season one of the most successful in Schurz soccer history.

Before another call for candidates is issued, Coach Pollack will lose thirteen lettermen including Captain Ormerod, V. Pedian, A. Isaak, E. Butkiewicz, T. Dayment, R. Smith, J. Bruschel, E. Plambeck, B. Ahlborn, R. Anderson, R. Gatti, F. Hornoff and G. Godfrey.

Schurz Cross-Country Team Displays Championship Form

Probably the most unheralded heroes of the gridiron, cinder path and hardwood courts are the athletic managers. Few people realize how important these boys are to athletes and coaches alike. Their duties are many and important ones. They reach from handling our equipment to administering first aid to the injured. Coaches are known to have stated that a good manager is as beneficial to sports as an assistant coach.

Led by Captain Ralph Dowling, who was undefeated throughout the season, the "Bulldog" cross-country team again proved its worth in Chicago sport cycles by placing second in the City Meet. Although Lane Tech captured the team title, Dowling carried away the individual honors.

Other members of the Schurz squad who placed were Herb Barten, third; Len Adams, ninth; Tom Cara, fifteenth, and Walter Rasmussen, seventeenth.

Coach Topping later pointed out that Lane registered the best score in history when they nosed out the "Bulldog" harriers, whose team score was low enough to win during the average season.

Gondela, Dulko, Fromet, Ernst, Shambaugh, and Hallengren were others who ran in the City Meet, with the latter placing fifth in the novice division.

Cindermen Again Rated the Best in Chicago

The Schurz junior track team was hampered by lack of practice throughout the season and did not fare as well as the senior squad. The team had to practice during the second period three times a week because late programs for freshmen and sophomores prevented these trackmen from working out in the afternoon.

Because there were no returning lettermen from last year's squad, this season's standouts are all newcomers.

With Ronald Ziemek, Gene Galinski, and Donald Mason in the sprints; Albert Swienton in the high jump; and Merle Jones in the 660-yard run, the "Bulldogs" made a fine showing in the Annual Oak Park Relays.

Coach George Topping is looking forward to the outdoor City Meet where some of his junior trackmen may distinguish themselves as the best in Chicago.

The "Bulldog" senior track team was undoubtedly the most disappointed squad of trackmen in Chicago when it was announced that there would be no Indoor City Meet. This was due to the fact that Coach George Topping's senior team defeated the University of Chicago High School 72 to 12, Crane Tech 68 to 25, Harrison Tech 67 to 14, Lane Tech 53 to 42 and made a better showing in the Oak Park Relays than any other Chicago school when they came in fourth with 25 points, 13 points more than the next Chicago school.

The Schurz relay team of Erickson, Miller, Keller, and Cara also won the special prep relay at the Chicago Stadium before 14,000 people.

Two school records were broken and another one was tied in the "Bulldogs'" first meet of the season. Norm Wilson covered the 60-yard hurdles in 7.8 seconds, and Co-Captain Tom Cara cracked the indoor 440-yard record when he streaked across the finish line in 52.6. Giles Godfrey tied the old mark in the 60-yard dash when he broke the tape in 6.5 seconds.

Led by Co-Captains Lennie Wahl and Tom Cara, the Schurz track team is looking forward to winning the Chicago Teachers Relays for the fifth time in a row, as well as the Outdoor City Championship which they won last year by an overwhelming margin.

Other outstanding trackmen on this year's squad were Bartew, Adams, Christofferson, Ostromencki, Lally, Nowicki, and Smith.

"Swimmers ready! Go!" These three little words started our mermen off to another good season of splashing. The City Meet, the big splash in Chicago high school swimming circles yielded only three places to our swimmers. Bob Caruso carried away fourth place honors in the diving event, and the relay team of Bob Engh, Joe Levar, Don Stonesifer, and Alex Busch, placed fourth. John Barriage, a junior, captured fifth place in the 220-yard crawl. George Jorgensen and Alex Busch led the Junior and Senior teams respectively in the spring meets, which saw Schurz walk away with a first in the four-man relay.

With only Captain Vahn Pedian and Walter Rasmussen returning from last year's baseball team, the outlook for a Schurz section title is not too bright. Although the squad of Pedian, Rasmussen, Blecke, Spannenberg, Appliger, Brevick, Overland, May, Sepke, Stuart, Schmid, Domain, and Leaser lost the "Bulldogs'" first two league games, Coach Eugene Nowak is not particularly worried about the team's showing. He has stressed the fact that this is a young and inexperienced team, and that he will be able to develop these boys for the next two years. The squad is considered one of the finest fielding teams in the North Section and should give a good account of themselves in the coming campaign. Only Blecke, Schmid, Leazar, and Captain Pedian will be missing from the diamond when the call for candidates will be issued next year.

Good Sports: Good Friends: Good Times

The air is filled with the lusty, enthusiastic voices of girls as you walk into the gym where the teams are playing volley ball. This period becomes a real "pep session" where excess energy can be let off. The girls under the supervision of their friendly gym teachers do calisthenics, play basketball, captain ball, or baseball in the spring. When the girls form a C. S., cheers for dear old Carl Schurz are in order.

Officers—G.A.A.: R. Borgerson, president; M. Noehre, vice president; R. Bobsin, secretary; L. George, treasurer.

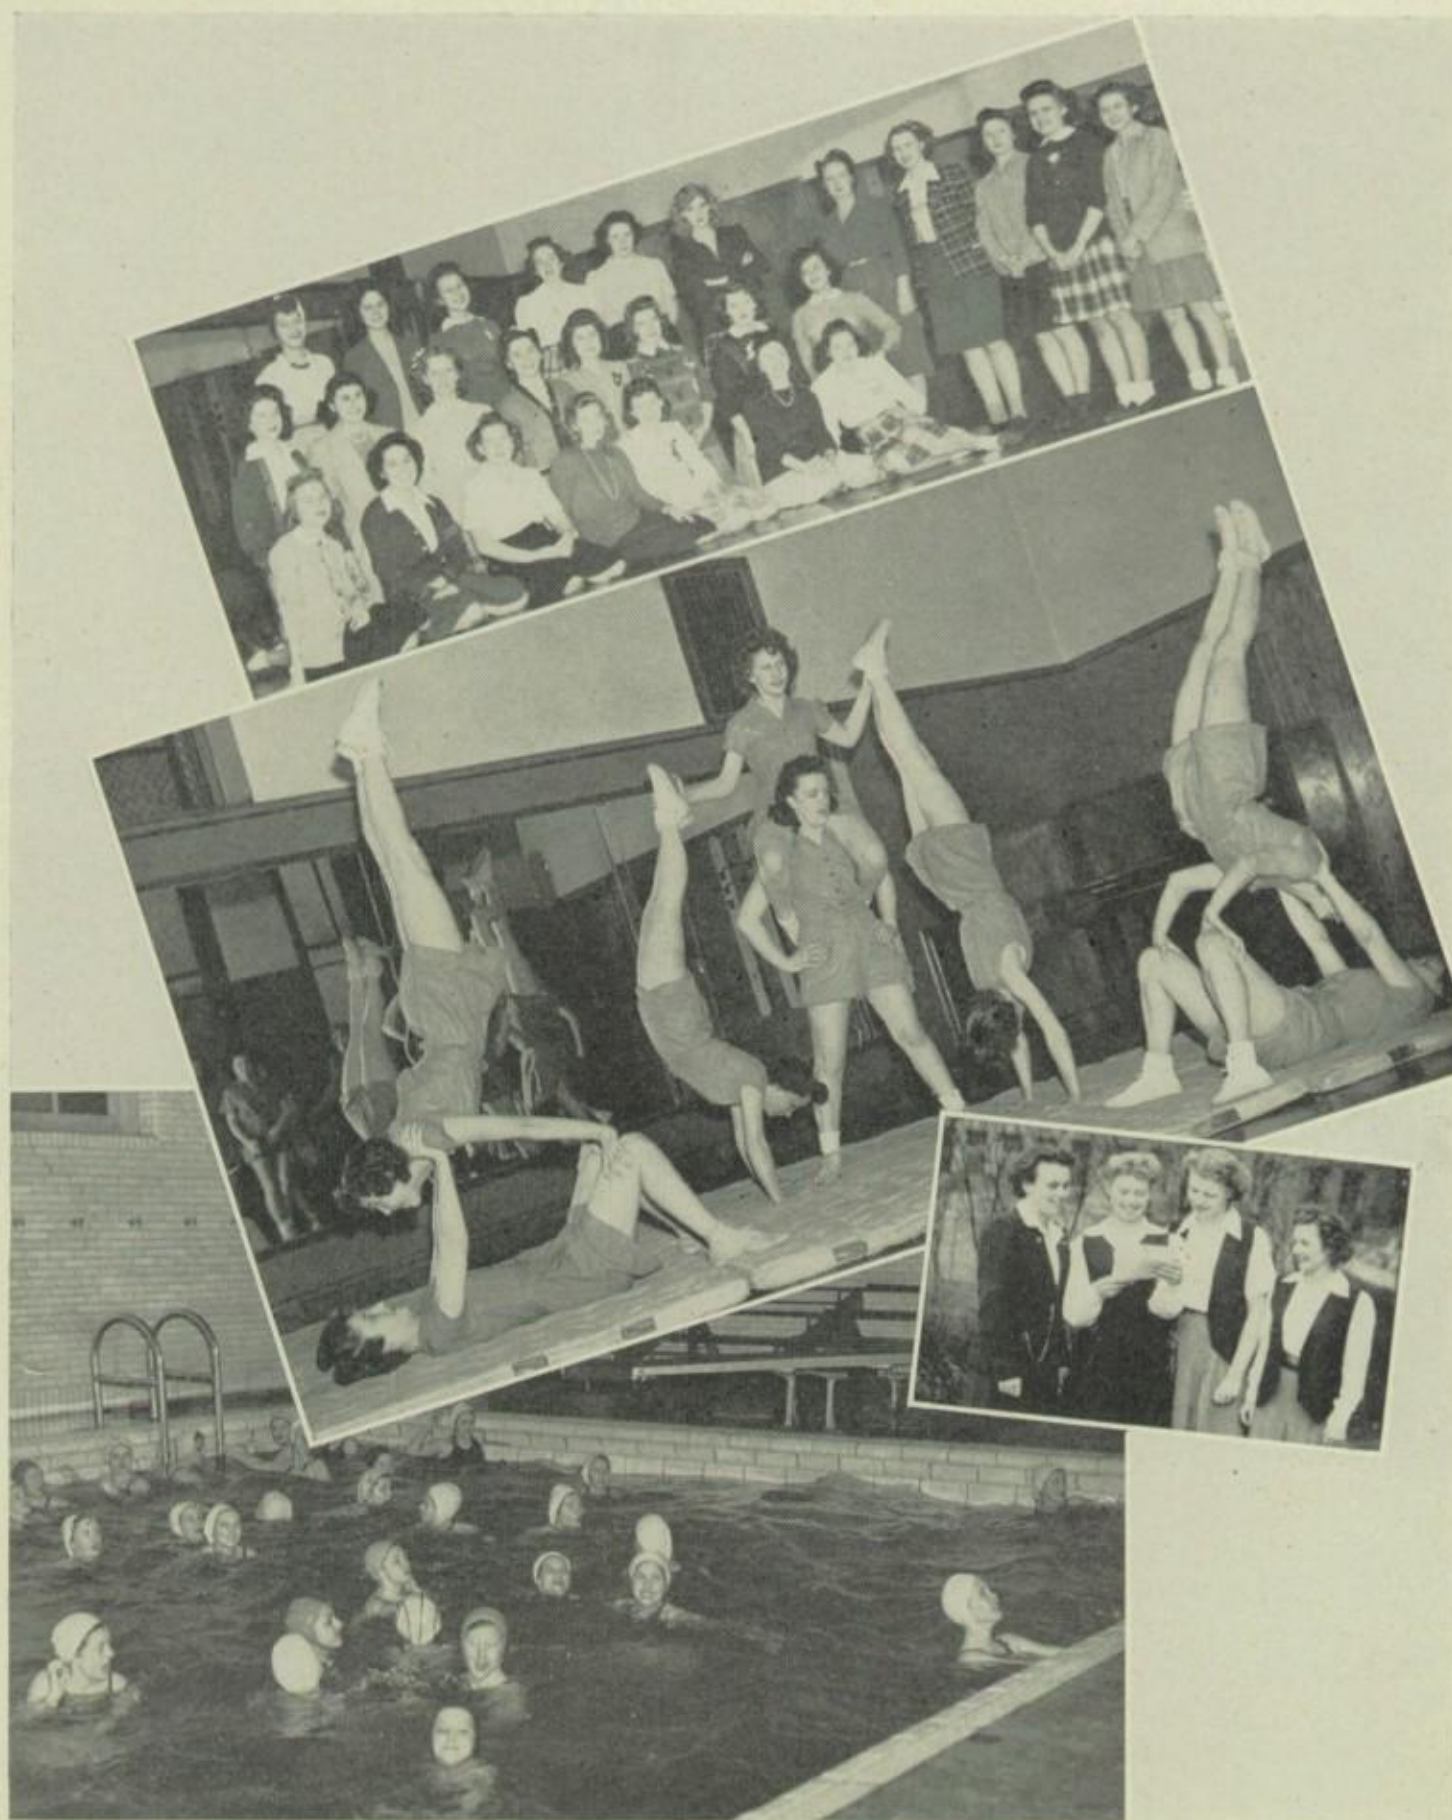

Gym work is required of every girl so that she may become a strong and vigorous American. In a less strenuous way we find the "medicals" taking gym, for they too have some floor work in the form of less energetic games, usually shuffleboard or badminton. The multitude of green suits and white socks that greets the eye where the classes are taking gym gives a feeling of unity and strength.

Keeping in Trim to the Tune of One, Two! One, Two!

"To the rear, march!" is the greeting a visitor to the gymnasium frequently hears, but the command is for the class not the visitor. Girls are marching to the rhythmic beat of "One, two, three, four," as issued by Miss McRae, whose chief aim is to teach endurance, skill, and a plucky spirit. Clean sportsmanship and a high set of standards are her principal keynotes of instruction. Vigorous, stimulating exercises are the next "feature attraction." The commando tactic exercises, sent out by the Government to strengthen the endurance of all school-age "teeners," are effectively followed in Schurz gymnasium program. Every student must participate in some form of healthful physical activity. This is the aim which guides the Schurz Physical Education Department in its comprehensive physical fitness program.

The G. A. A. With Plans, Play, and Pyramids

In grandma's day girls never enjoyed the good times that the members of the Girls' Athletic Association do today; good times, good sportsmanship, good health. This large and efficient organization is run by a group of capable girls, under the direction of Mrs. Gibian, who are interested in athletics, in promoting good sportsmanship, in helping the girls of all semesters to get acquainted, and in bringing a feeling of "well done" to the club's members. The officials take care of the points and bars awarded to the girls every semester for outstanding athletic ability. Upon reflection, you will find that these are the girls who are behind the roller skating parties and hikes, and that they are usually the ones who are performing on the mats, building pyramids, joining teams, and spending extra periods in the swimming pool.

Swat the Ball: Over the Net It Goes

The class cheers can be heard throughout the corridor as energetic teams vie for winning honors. One of the favorite days in gym is that devoted to the exciting volleyball game. The ball bounces crazily over the net while girlish voices shriek high treble.

The pyramids are our pride and joy. Skillful young athletes bend muscles and balance in rhythmic poses to attain artistic figures. All this is exercise performed in happy moments for the securing of physical health for Uncle Sam.

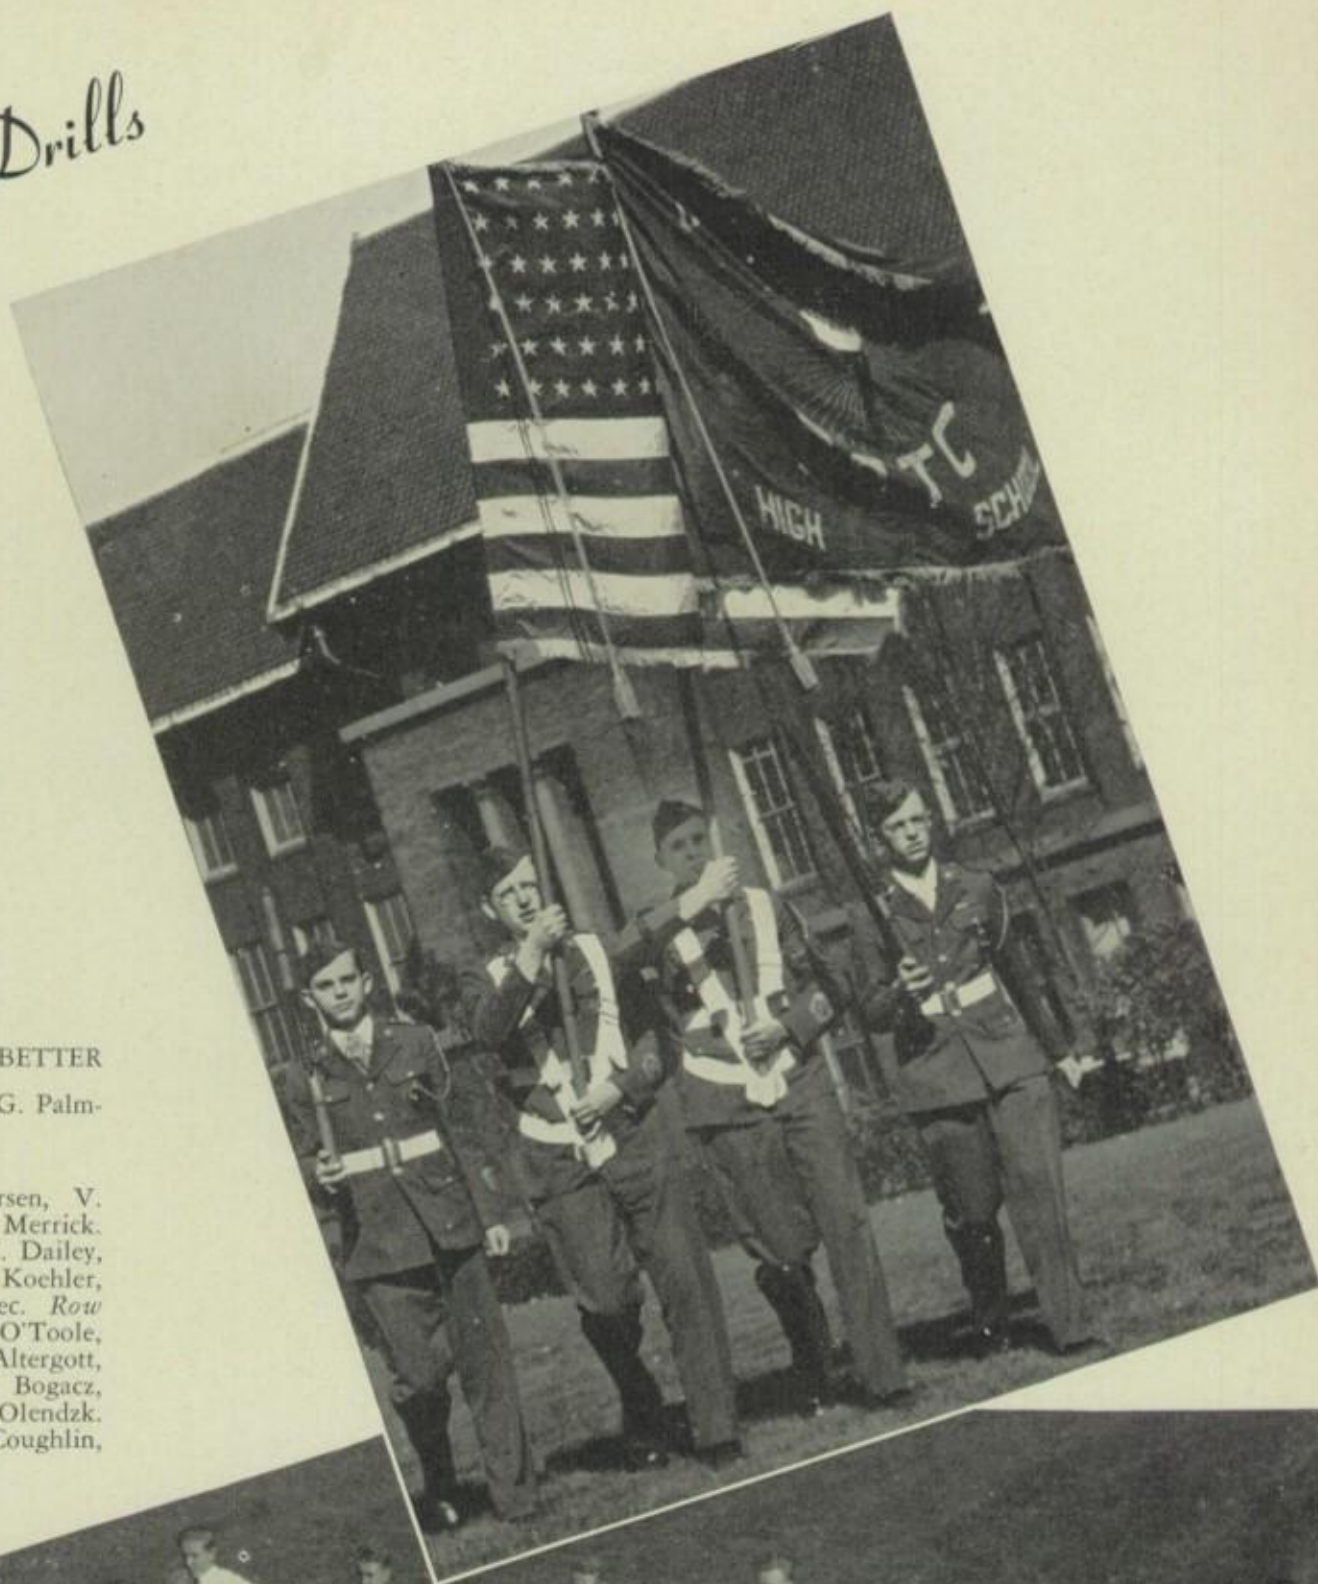

The R. O. J. C. Drills

To the American, there is no finer banner than that of "Old Glory" with its stars and stripes. From the time of the battles of the Revolutionary War to the brave attacks in the jungles of Guadalcanal and Tarawa, the flag has always flown high among those defending it. At Schurz, the four R.O.T.C. cadets who compose the Regiment's Color Guard display the Colors at parades, flag dedications, football games and keep "Old Glory" flying.

Under the Eagle's Wing

The Company—An Essential Unit

In each of our R.O.T.C. periods, the group of energetic and alert cadets under the command of a Cadet Captain is known as a company. These groups are a team, determined to study and drill together to obtain a high rating for our school regiment. Competition exists between companies and the commanders with their cadets work hard to develop a well trained and disciplined organization. Each week an inspection is taken at which merits are given for neatness in appearance and a good knowledge of military subjects taught to the cadets. A few weeks before our Federal Inspection, which is held annually, results are computed and the outstanding group is honored by marching as "Company A" in the inspection with the other companies in their respective positions. From each period, the outstanding cadets are designated to compete for medals and the successful ones are awarded their honors at the inspection. It is an inspiring sight to see the cadets marching along, each proud of one another, and trying hard to do their best. When their objectives are satisfactorily accomplished the company is an efficient body of disciplined cadets, trained in subjects of a military nature, and ready, and willing to represent Schurz with honor in any competition.

Working Together to Make R. O. T. C. Better

The R.O.T.C. tradition that grips its members is the result of the work of its able army instructor, Sergeant Frisch, Professor of Military Science and Tactics of the Schurz Regiment. It is due to his efforts that the school's R.O.T.C. has always produced a fine record in rifle meets, at the annual Federal Inspection, and Picked Platoon competitions. The cadets appreciate this training which is of benefit to those entering the service of their country.

This year, Schurz Rifle Team was coached by Sergeant Uber, and assisted by Cadet Captain Ted Radamaker, team captain and rifle team member for the past six semesters. Although our squad was composed almost entirely of new men, we were able to win second place in the City and Sixth Service Command matches.

Any cadet who has good grades and is interested in rifle marksmanship is welcome to try out for the rifle team. If he qualifies as a candidate, he is required to practice after school until he becomes an expert shot in prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing positions. Of all the cadets who tried out for the team, the following have qualified: Allen, Barth, Bartling, Blomgren, Cantrell, Frerk, Herlin, Hintz, Janislowski, Jolly, Lagerquist, Maina, Maruniak, O'Donnell, Peterson, Radamaker, Richardson, and Wingfield. The highest ten men picked to represent Schurz in the annual matches placed in the following order: Radamaker, Lagerquist, Jolly, Allen, Richardson, O'Donnell, Bartling, Cantrell, Hintz, and Barth. The ten marksmen did very well, making a total of 3372 points out of a possible 4000 points. Schurz has good material to build a team that we hope will capture first place next season.

The student commissioned officers of the junior branch of the R.O.T.C. are directly responsible for its active existence. The Officers' Club unites them into one highly organized body that works for the success of the R.O.T.C. The officers act as military instructors under the guidance of the unit commander. Lessons in marksmanship, discipline, map reading and other military matters, all fall in their line of duty. They are the heart of the organization, giving it life and effectiveness.

Family Preparations for the Military Ball

Our Student Officers—the fellows with the ovals on their shoulders and their sabers shining bright! To every cadet the officer is an important person. He is the fellow with the black belt, shiny saber, and brass whistle. When the cadets snap to attention, it is because of his command. His responsibilities are to instruct his group in obtaining the military posture and a thorough understanding of how to shoot a rifle, when to salute, and other material from the manual that the colonel requires. But his tasks are not all work, because there is plenty of time for play. With the able instruction from Mrs. Redfield the officers learn the finer points to be observed in social activities at their military ball.

Preparing for Work and Play

When the new year begins and all the cadets are ready to start a semester of drilling and studying, the first problem to be met is uniforms. Each cadet of previous R.O.T.C. experience is fitted with a G.I. uniform and is ready for any military affair. When the regiment is completely uniformed, regular weekly inspections are held at which the regimental commander inspects each individual cadet for his neatness in appearance and a knowledge of the military subjects instructed by the student officers.

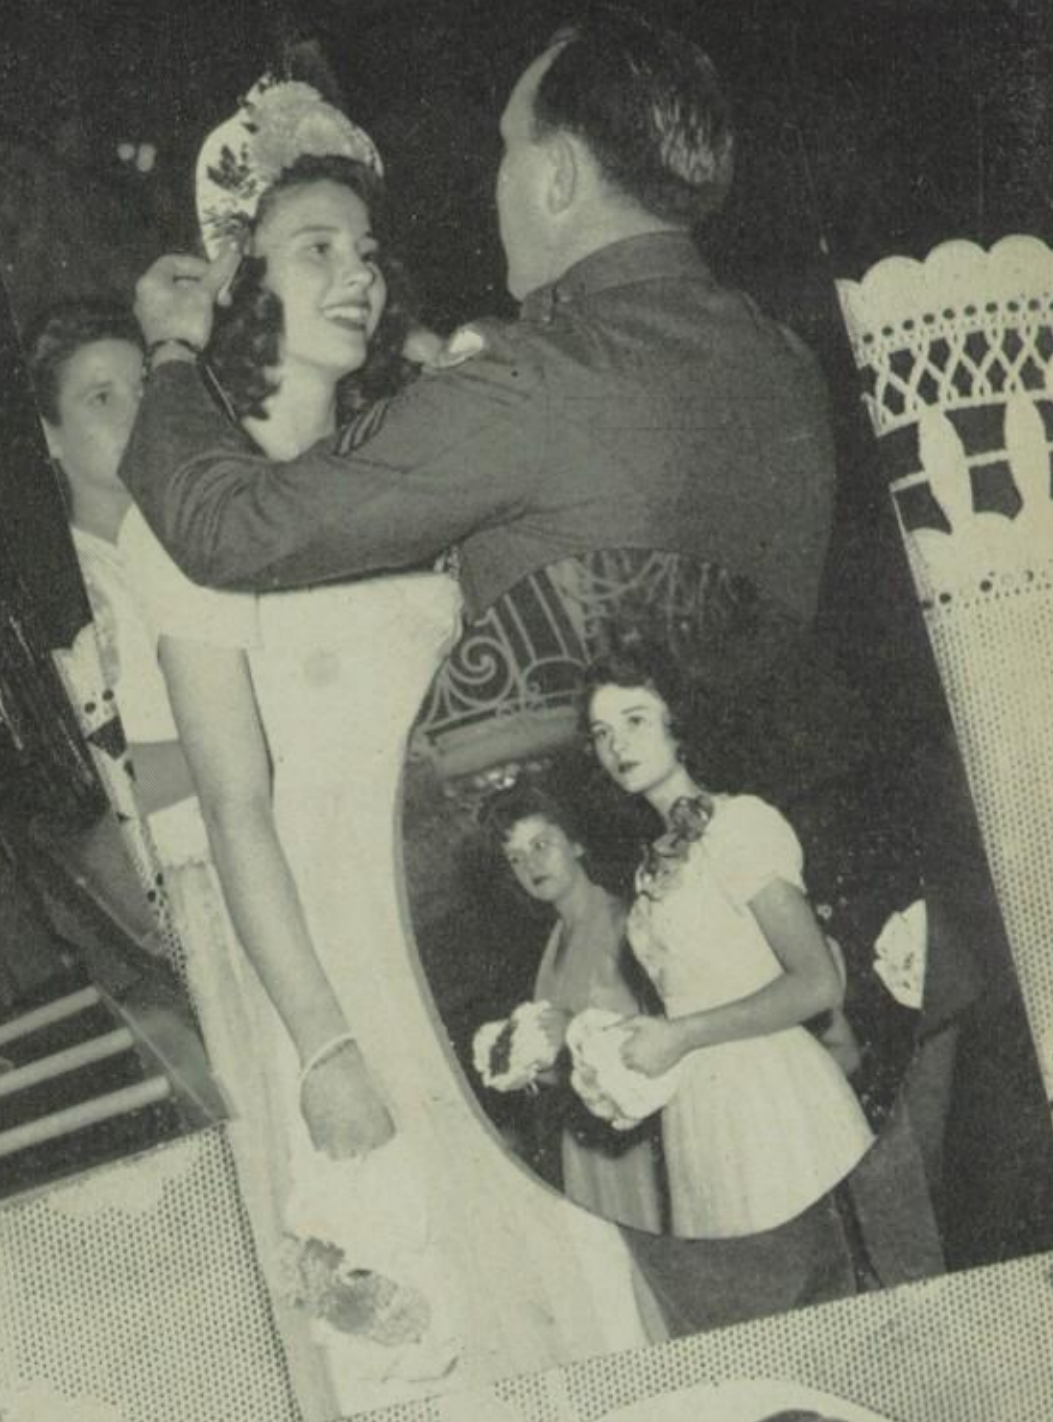

At the end of each semester, our Executive Staff consisting of the Colonel and the Majors plan the well known "Bulldog Hop." With the assistance of Mr. Roncoli and the military instructor, Sgt. Gilbert, the student officers are given definite tasks to accomplish. Upon their shoulders rests the responsibility for an enjoyable evening with the best in music and ballroom dancing.

Belles of the Ball

Coquettish eyes peeked from behind fans like this in Mother's day, but the jewels on our fan reveal the crowning moments of the Military Ball. Lovely Aurelia Gordon became Queen of the Ball, and Jean Skifano, Patsy Kuss, Bernice Rofstad, and Joy Hanson formed her admiring court. One of the brightest activity highlights of the year was the Military Ball sponsored by the ROTC. The grand ballroom at the Stevens Hotel, the colorfull gowns, and that touch of military uniform with its slim and smart appearance sparkle in memory. The ball was also an aid to our war effort. Through the sales of Defense Bonds and stamps, a purchaser had the opportunity to vote for a candidate. Because of his excellent work as the unit commander, Lt. Col. R. Frerk was presented with a saber from the cadets of the regiment. The girl with the leading votes was crowned "Queen of the Ball". Now the "Belles of the Ball" reign on memory's fan.

Double, double! Senior twins, not trouble, keep life interesting for our senior family of teachers and classmates. The members of the senior class have become accustomed to seeing the same person in two different places at once and seeing double. Just count their twins.

EAST WEST SCHURZ IS BEST

W

These windows of Schurz,
once long ago,
Saw grandmama come to school,
you know;
Not as we do in the rush
of today,
But stately and prim
in the "good old way"
Of horse car, or surrey,
or bicycle queer,
Or with sedate walk
if she lived near.
